THAT BOY.

The boy stood on our front door step,
Whence all but him had fled;
He rubbed his eyes and sadly wept
And this is what he said:

My Pa and Ma are now inside
"THE CONANT FURNITURE STORE,"
They ought to get their wants supplied
In half a day or more.

He called aloud: "say, father, say,"
If I should starve to death,
But the father WADING far away,
And the boy was wasting breath.

Yet beautiful and bright he stood,
And the salty tears again,
Though he tried to "brace up" all he could,
ran down his cheek like rain.

Dear father, once again he cried,
If I may yet be lost
This "OLD ROOM SUIT," his Pa replied,
I'll have at auf cost.

He pulled his hair, the door he beat,
Impatient little John,
There were busy feet on Summit street
And the Electric cars rolled on.

Mother, he cried in accents wild,
Will you miss me when I'm dead?
She answered, Yes, and sweetly smiled,
We want a "FOLDING BED."

Then came a burst of thunder sound,
The boy, oh, where was he?
Back in the store he soon was found
Across his father's knee.

They came from near and far that day,
Our BARGAINS to enjoy
And all disliked to go away,
But that uneasy boy.

"Forepaugh" can show no bedroom
Suits for $25.00; WE CAN.
He keeps elephants,
WE NEVER DO.

THE DEBATE AT ADA

Thousands Flock to the Ohio Town

To Hear the Great Political Leaders Talk.

Hickory Canes From All Parts of the State.

The Campbells are Coming the Popular Air.

The Largest Outpouring of People That a Political Meeting Has Ever Caused in That Section of the State.

Ada, Oct. S.—(Special)—The little town of Ada has its hands full to-day in entertaining the thousands of people here from all over Ohio to listen to the great debate between Gov. Campbell and Maj. McKinley.

The debate is almost a national affair, for people are here from all parts of the country. Indiana and Pennsylvania have delegates here, and newspaper men are on the ground from nearly every metropolitan journal in the country.

It was a monstrous job for a village the size of Ada to undertake to care for such a crowd, but the public spirited citizens went at the thing with a vim and the people will all get something to eat.

The committee on securing food for the hungry thousands had its hands full, but it has succeeded admirably.

The town was canvassed and room for the entertainment of 20,000 visitors was found. Many families can care for 100 and as high as 500 people and the churches have all thrown open their doors.

The decorations on the buildings are very elaborate. Four arches span the principal street bearing the inscriptions "Welcome Our Leaders." Flags and bunting are suspended and wave from every house top and window. At the fair grounds, where the debate is taking place, the accommodations are splendid. A huge canvas is stretched to keep the sun from beating on the heads of the audience, and seats are provided for 10,000 people. The corps of visiting newspaper men are seated immediately in front of the stage.

The telegraphic facilities are splendid. The railroad company transferred their freight house into an office and 14 operators will flash the particulars of the great debate, between the champion of the people and the champion of protection and class legislation, to a waiting world to-night.

The blame for all this must, if fixed anywhere, be fixed upon Prof. H. S. Lehr, president of the Northwestern Ohio normal school. Let that gentleman tell the story of how the debate was arranged for this little town:

"Some months ago," said the professor to the Bee, "Gov. Campbell promised to come and deliver a graduating address to my class. For some good reason he failed to arrive and later on came down to the dedication of a church in our town.

"I reminded him of his failure to come on the commencement occasion, and he said he would be pleased to come some other time. I asked him if he would have any objections to meeting McKinley in joint debate, and he said he had none, and gave me his proposition to that effect in writing. I then secured McKinley's consent and the debate was settled upon."

The trains last night brought crowds of people to the place and the hotels were taxed to their utmost capacity to care for the people who asked for lodging.

Gov. Campbell came in from Columbus by way of Crestline, at 11 o'clock last night and was driven to the residence of Prof. Lehr, whose guest he will be while here.

There is much enthusiasm displayed, and all night long the streets were filled by people shouting themselves hoarse for Campbell and McKinley.

A hundred different styles of badges were hawked about on the streets and the excitement was at fever heat.

Col. W. A. Taylor, of the Cincinnati Enquirer, came in last night and expressed himself as confident of Gov. Campbell's election.

"I have been over a greater portion of the state," said he to the Bee, "and if I am any kind of a judge, Campbell will go to Hamilton county with at least 10,000 majority. Two years ago he reached here with 4,000 majority. All parts of the state will make democratic gains, but especially will Gov. Campbell make great inroads on McKinley up in the Western Reserve. The present campaign has been and is a wonderful one, and there is one element that people know little about. That is the secret Farmers' alliance. They hold secret meetings and their intentions so far as to whom they will support are not known. It is fair to presume, however, that they will not vote for McKinley."

"What will the people's party do, Colonel?"

"Had the election occurred 10 days after the Springfield convention, that ticket would have received 50,000 votes in the state, but now I very much doubt if John Seitz gets 10,000 votes. The bottom has fallen completely out of the movement."

Col. Taylor was the happiest man in Ada last night, for he had just received the result of the analysis of McKinley's Piqua tin, made at the Ohio state university. The analysis showed something like 9 per cent. tin, 8 per cent. of lead and 83 per cent. of iron. Not a particle of steel was found in the tin, and Maj. McKinley is convicted of either ignorance or willful misrepresentation, and his managers of perjury, for they swore that the tin contained a certain percentage of steel.

The publication of these facts will give the republican candidate and his friends considerable trouble.

This is unquestionably the biggest day Ada has ever seen, and for that matter ever will see. The early trains began dumping the people in by the thousands, and every road leading into the town was jammed with vehicles.

Democratic and republican clubs were parading the streets all the forenoon, and a dozen bands played patriotic airs.

The Kenton democratic club was the first to arrive, all carrying hickory canes, and as they marched down street, their band playing "The Campbells are Coming," a mighty chorus of yells went up for the Butler mascot.

The Jackson club, of Columbus, the Duckworth club, of Cincinnati, 200 strong, and the Brice club, of Lima, arrived at noon.

Gov. Campbell had intended to come up from Columbus last night, but changed his program and came with the Jackson club.

When the governor arrived he was given a splendid reception, and republicans as well as democrats vied in extending honors to Ohio's brilliant executive.

Major McKinley arrived a few moments later and was also greeted with a magnificent ovation.

Both gentlemen lunched with Prof. Lehr, who will dine them this evening.

The visiting newspaper men were also lunched by the hospitable professor, who has almost exhausted himself in caring for his guests.

Democrats are very enthusiastic and wherever Campbell's picture is displayed it is cheered by the crowd.

Arrangements for the great debate were concluded this morning. J. M. Vanfleet will preside for Gov. Campbell and Col. James C. Howe for Major McKinley.

Judge Yoder.

Among the visitors is Judge S. S. Yoder of Lima, who came direct from Washington.

"The greatest interest is manifested in Washington," said he in regard to this debate. "Democrats are generally of the opinion that Gov. Campbell will get the best of the discussion."

"How is your candidacy coming on, Judge?"

"I will, so far as I know, have no opposition for doorkeeper of the house. I have made a careful canvass and feel satisfied that I will be the only candidate for the place."

Campbell Has the Crowd.

The reception which was accorded to Gov. Campbell was much more magnificent than was anticipated. He was accompanied by Chairman Neal and Secretary Meeker, and when he stepped from the train cheers from ten thousand throats rent the air.

The carriage in which he seated himself was drawn by a magnificent team of bays, and preceded by two bands and 200 of the college militia, and followed by the reception committee in carriages and a long line of uniformed democratic clubs, the governor started toward the residence of Prof. Lehr.

While driving past the college campus, he was greeted by the national salute from an artillery squad belonging to the college.

Arriving at Prof. Lehr's residence a hasty reception was held and then the governor sought a private room and began looking over his correspondence.

Major McKinley knocked for admission, and the two rival candidates held a few minutes' conversation, after which they partook of luncheon together. The crowd is estimated at from 20,000 to 40,000 people and there is no question but that a major portion are democrats.

McKinley looked haggard and worn, and seemed to be disappointed at the tame reception he received as compared with that of the governor's in this republican stronghold. There is no disguising the fact that Campbell is the favorite nearly two to one.

Among the prominent Ohio politicians present might be mentioned Hon. J. A. Norton, Hon. Ferd. Layton, Walter Ritchie, W. C. Gear, M. F. Eggerman, ex-Speaker Hysell, E. W. Poe, Congressman Gantz, C. N. Lamson, Senator Pumphrey, and a host of others.

THE LIGHT OF LEARNING.

The Great Ecumenical Methodist Conference.

Officers Elected to Govern the Session.

An Englishman Gives This Country and Its Churches a Most Hearty and Deserved Compliment.

Washington, Oct. S.—Five hundred clerical gentlemen, uniformed in black frock coats and white ties, began assembling in the Metropolitan Methodist church yesterday while the chimes of the structure were ringing out a welcome to the members of the second ecumenical Methodist conference which began its sessions there.

All parts of the globe are represented. Three hundred of those in attendance are from the United States and Canada. The remaining 200 are from several foreign countries, a majority, however, being from England.

A goodly number represented Ireland, Scotland and Wales, while France, the West Indies, South Africa and China also has delegates present. The presence of a number of negro ministers, principally from the southern states, was noticeable.

Ten years ago, an ecumenical council of Methodists was held in London. This one, like its predecessor, is to be confined to discussion. From its nature there can be no legislation. No delegate or organization will be bound by what is said or done there.

The animating purpose is to bring out the brightest and most practicable ideas of the most thoughtful and wisest representatives of the church, and the application of these ideas will be left to the separate divisions.

The distinguished gathering was called to order by Bishop Thomas Bowman, of St. Louis. He looked down on many hundreds of faces, clergy and laymen, while the galleries above him were crowded to their capacity with lay brothers and sisters, the latter seeming to be in the majority.

Officers were elected as follows:

Permanent chairman of the business committee, Bishop J. F. Hurst of Washington; first secretary, Rev. J. H. King of New York; second secretary, Rev. Dr. E. B. Rickman of Ottawa; third secretary, Rev. John Bond of England; fourth secretary, Mr. E. L. C. Snape of England.

Presiding officers for the several sessions were elected as follows: First session, second day, Rev. Dr. T. S. Stephenson, England; second session, second day, Rev. Dr. Carman of Canada; first session, third day, Rev. H. T. Marshall of England.

Rev. J. H. Carlisle of Spartansburg, S. C., delivered the second address of welcome, and Dr. George Douglass of Montreal delivered the third address of welcome.

Rev. T. R. Stephenson, president of the Wesleyan connection of London, was greeted enthusiastically. He said that when an Englishman came here he felt as if he had shaken off some of his shackles, stepped out into the light, as it were. They had gotten into a country where it made little difference what church a man belonged to; where he did not meet "people who were too highly cultured." He was glad to see what Methodism could do in a country where it had a fair field and favor. This conference ought to be a great spiritual power.

Mr. George Green of Glasgow, representing the Primitive Methodist church of England, was the next speaker. He hoped the channels of difference between the Methodists would be worn down some as a result of this council.

Rev. R. Abercrombie of Shrewsbury, England, delivered the last address of the day.

At the close of Mr. Abercrombie's remarks the Doxology was sung and the first day's session closed with prayer by the Rev. Dr. Stephenson.

CONCEDED THE DEMANDS.

Pittsburg, Oct. S.—Five of the leading railroad coal operators in the Pittsburg district conceded the demands of their miners to-day, and will pay the 3 1-2 cent rate. Work will resume in these mines to-morrow, giving employment to about two thousand men. The miners are jubilant over their victory.

TREATED WITH RESPECT.

New York, Oct. S.—The Herald's Valparaiso dispatch this morning says it is evident that there is now a disposition on the part of the authorities to observe the usual courtesies toward United States Minister Egan. Visitors to the legation are no longer troubled by the police.

HARDIN COUNTY POLITICS

An Interesting State of Affairs at Kenton.

Editor Miller is Now Bossing the Machine.

The Republican Foraker-Sherman Fight Makes Governor Campbell's Chances All the Brighter.

Kenton, O., Oct., S.—(Special)—Hardin county is one of the closest counties politically in the state and has been so for a number of years but by reason of superior generalship the democrats have always had a shade the best of the fierce contest.

Last year Ryan carried the county by a majority of two, but the democrats bagged nearly all the county offices. The republicans of Hardin county are lead generally by that astute politician, Gen. Robinson, ex-secretary of state. This year however his leadership has been thrust aside and a new Richmond in the person of E. L. Miller has entered the field and has so far bested Robinson and his forces.

Be it said however that Miller's victory was achieved while the General was in Europe. Miller is editor of the republican paper and a man of considerable ability.

The fight among the republicans arose over the nomination of a candidate for representative, and the particulars are as follows: General Robinson, who is a Sherman man, had dictated the nomination of John Rice for representative. Rice is a well known Sherman adherent, and while Miller and his friends who are Foraker men, seemed to fall in line with Gen. Robinson's views, they secretly waited for an opportunity to overthrow his plans.

This opportunity finally came. Before departing for Europe Robinson directed that the republican county convention should not be held until his return. No sooner however did he leave the shores of the United States, before Miller had the convention called. Robinson's friends suspected some deviltry but were unable to fathom the action of Miller and his friends until the day before the convention, when it became known that Rice, Robinson's candidate for representative, was to be sidetracked and that Prof. C. H. Wortman a pronounced Foraker man was to be nominated.

The convention was held and notwithstanding that Judge Hoye and other of Robinson's friends endeavored to frustrate the plans of the Foraker conspirators they were unable to do so and Wortman was nominated. The Sherman men were very sore and have not gotten over it, and there is not much doubt but that the next representative from Hardin county will be a democrat. Wortman is one of the faculty of the Northwestern Ohio Normal school at Ada and a bright fellow, but he has always been a Foraker man and if elected will stand pledged to vote for him for United States Senator in preference to Sherman.

The democrats made a very sensible nomination for the same office in the person of C. W. Carson, a farmer living near Forest. Mr. Carson is a well informed man and will serve the people of Hardin county intelligently in the state legislature.

The democrats of the county are in good fighting shape and although the campaign is as yet scarcely underway, a spirit of enthusiasm is apparent which betokens a victory.

Mr. Daniel Flannigan, editor of the Kenton Democrat, said:

"The democrats of Hardin county have no such fight on their hands as have our friends the enemy, and will make a winning campaign when the time comes. We have always been pretty successful and have at this time a majority of the county offices in our hands."

"How does Gov. Campbell stand in Hardin county?"

"No man was ever more highly thought of by our people than is Ohio's governor and he will certainly have a majority in the county. His administration has been clean and able, and there is nobody opposed to him but republicans, that I know of. Hardin county democratic farmers are well posted on the issues before the people and will vote against McKinley and his infamous policy of stone wall protection. This county has at the present time more protection than it can stand, and were it not for the splendid crops and the high prices farmers are receiving for their grain by reason of famines in Europe the country would be in a bad way. I think you can safely say that this county will go democratic."

One of the most energetic and hustling of Hardin county's democratic workers is Mr. W. W. Durbin, chairman of the democratic committee. Mr. Durbin is a young man but a splendid politician and intends when the time comes to have the democratic forces well in line.

Said he to the Bee when conversing on the prospects in Hardin county:

"This is one of the closest counties in the state and the two parties are almost divided by a hair as it were. The campaigns are usually very hot and the democrats usually come out on top. We hope to do that this year and by reason of the Foraker-Sherman row, hope to roll up a splendid majority for Gov. Campbell, and our entire ticket. We feel that we have a splendid chance this year to clean out the republicans horse, foot and dragoons."

"What do Hardin county farmers think of the tariff issue?"

"I think they are better posted than they have ever been before and when a man is once posted and will lay aside his party prejudice he must arraign himself against the republican doctrine of high protection. It has never benefitted the farmers of this county a single iota, but on the other side has made them pay double price almost for the things they eat and wear. When you give farmers free sugar and tax them 50 per cent. on other things, the benefit of the law is not apparent."

Mr. Phil. M. Crow, attorney-at-law is another of the young blood democrats of Hardin county who does telling work for the ticket each year.

Mr. Crow said: "I am of the opinion that democrats will achieve a victory in Hardin county this year. The republicans have a fight on their hands and we are harmonious and united. The latter condition always counts. The democratic leaders of the party in this couty are mostly young men full of energy and push and they work for the succes of the ticket until the polls close on election day. This year there will be no exception to this rule. We hope to elect our entire county ticket and give Campbell a majority."

Kenton democrats have a splendid club and its president is J. C. Swank who is an ardent worker.

"Gov. Campbell ought to be re-elected," said he. "His administration has been efficient and no man can truthfully say anything against him. I think the tirade of lies published about him in the Commercial-Gazette will make him hundreds of votes. The democrats of Hardin county will keep up the fight of former years this fall and we will elect our ticket."

The Sciota club, of which Mr. Swank is president, has a couple of hundred member and is in splendid condition for making a vigorous fight.

M. C. Reece, secretary of the Sciota club, said that in his opinion the democrats of Hardin were in splendid shape and would win.

Seaman Price, ex-president of the council, is very enthusiastic and predicts victory.

In fact there is victory in the air down here. The man at the head of the democratic ticket this year, Ohio's gallant governor, and the principles of which he is the exponent are very near to democratic hearts, and the party under the new law which prohibits to a large extent republican crookedness, ought to achieve a magnificent victory in the state. As Conceal Brown would say, "The gods are with us."

$24,000 SHORT.

Towson, Md., Oct. S.—The report of Wm. M. Rogers, an expert accountant, who has examined the accounts of ex-County Treasurer Morgan, has been submitted to County Commissioner Magruder. It is to the effect that over $24,000 are unaccounted for.

KILLED BY ROBBERS.

Norfolk, Va., Oct. S.—Dr. William M. Lockwood, formerly of Stamford, Conn., was found yesterday morning choked to death on a road near Berkeley. Robbery is supposed to have been the motive for the murder, as the deceased was thought to have some money. No trace of the murderers could be found.

PAPPOOSE WINS THE RACE

The Burgess Boat a Winner at Detroit.

The "City" Outsailed in a Strong Breeze.

Baten on Windward Work and Held Down With a Free Sheet in a Long Stern Chase.

Detroit, Oct. S.—The first signal gun for the boats in the great yacht race to get ready was fired from the Louise, the judge's boat, at 11:25. The signal for the start was given five minutes later, and the City jibed and crossed the line on the port tack at 11:31:20, with single-reefed mainsail, jib and stay sail, and topmast housed.

At 11:32:28 the Pappoose came flying over the line on the same tack with precisely the same sails set. For the first few minutes both boats held almost the same course, but at 11:36:25 the Pappoose pointed closer into the eye of the wind and passed to the windward of the City.

The course, which was not laid dead to windward, gave both boats the advantage of a very long leg on the first tack, fully 10 miles it would seem.

About half the leg had been covered with both boats holding to the same course, the City, if anything pointing more to the west, when the latter let out the reef in the mainsail and was followed a short while after by the same movement on the Pappoose's part.

Each skipper was watching the movements of his rival very closely.

About eight miles out a block of the City gave away letting the mainsail drop. A man was sent aloft to repair the damage, but before that could be done the City got out of her course and lost several minutes in the mishap.

A short while after the Pappoose came about on the starboard tack, leaving the City dead to leeward about half a mile. As the city came in stays she attempted on the short tack to make up for lost time, but failed. About two miles from the stake boat the Pappoose tried to send up her topmast, but for some reason it wouldn't work.

The Erie yacht had an easy run of it to the stake boat, which she rounded four and one-half minutes ahead of the City. In about ten minutes after she got up her topmast, and set her gaff topsail, balloon jib and baby spinnaker.

The City, three-quarters of a mile behind, sent up her club topsail and jib topsail, let out her big spinnaker and made for the finish. On the home-stretch there was particularly little gain on the part of either boat and the Pappoose, accompanied by a fleet of boats, amid the tooting of whistles, salutes of cannon, and the cheers of yachtmen and spectators, crossed the line a winner of the greatest yacht race that has ever occurred west of the Atlantic ocean at 3:02:15. The City passed the finish in beautiful style amid cheers defiant though beaten, at 3:06:04. The summary of the race is:

	Start.	Finish.	Actual time.	Equated time.
City of the Straits	11:32:28	3:02:15	3:29:50	3:39:12
Pappoose	11:31:20	3:06:04	3:34:44	3:34:44

An analysis of the race shows that the City was beaten on windward work full six minutes, and on the leeward run home made up about half a minute, which she could not have done had the Pappoose been pushed and used her extra canvas. The sailors of the City declare that if it hadn't been for this accident, the face would have showed a different result, and declare their willingness to tackle the victor again in two weeks for $500.

The judges were Capt. Joe Nicholson, for the City of the Straits; J. W. Hepburn, of Toledo, for the Pappoose, and Commodore G. W. Gardner, of Cleveland, the mutual choice of the other two for third judge. The watches were held by Dr. M. H. Parmelee, of Toledo, and E. Ferguson, of Detroit.

THE NEW COMET.

Mt. Hamilton, Cal., Oct. S.—The orbit of the comet discovered by Prof. Barnard Oct. 2, has been calculated by Prof. Campbell, who finds the following elements: Time of perihelion, passage in November is 8 days 18 times the earth's distance. These computations show the comet is moving rapidly toward the south. It is not increasing in brightness and will not be visible to the naked eye. Longitude of node 215 degrees 38 minutes. Omega 262 degrees 6 minutes. Inclination of plane of orbit, 75 degrees 50 minutes.

WANT TO DIVIDE THE STATE

Colorado Politicians Working a Scheme.

The Outcome of the Proposed Battle Will be Watched With Interest All Over the Country.

Denver, Col., Oct. S.—From reports received here a sensation is promised at the meeting of the western Colorado congress at Grand Junction, which is no less than a proposition to divide the state of Colorado.

For some time past the towns on the western slope have been dissatisfied with the treatment they have received at the hands of the railroads in the latter's construction of the intent of the interstate commerce law as compared with towns on the eastern slope.

This convention will demand the immediate change of existing rules and rates and in case it is refused, an effort will be made to have the state divided, the dividing line to be the great continental divide. Whether this can be accomplished or not, is a question, but there is no doubt about there being a desire for this, and a well-known politician declared that the whole proposition is simply a scheme of the west slope politicians, synonymous to going to Washington as representatives of a new state.

BOOTH'S CONDITION.

A Sensational Report in Circulation in Boston.

New York, Oct. S.—The report telegraphed from Boston yesterday to the effect that Edwin Booth was seen in Boston last week wandering aimlessly about the streets, and that he talked incoherently and unreasonably to a friend, whom he met in the street, is denied by Stuart Robson.

Mr. Booth is at the Players club in this city, and it was said at that place last night that the report is malicious and without foundation. Mr. Booth could not be seen.

SHOT BY HIS EMPLOYE.

A Hot-Headed Contractor Commits Murder in New York.

Rome, N. Y., Oct. S.—D. O. Saunders, a contractor on the Adirondack and St. Lawrence railroad, near White Corners, in anger fatally shot Wm. Davis, one of his colored laborers on Monday.

Saunders found fault with the work performed by Davis, and the negro replied to his rebuke in a surly manner, whereupon Saunders shot him. The negro will probably die. Saunders is under arrest.

FOUND HIS DEAD BODY.

His Head Was Hanging to a Rope Over a Precipice.

Eau Claire, Wis., Oct. S.—Christian Bergham, of Springfield, Wis., who was employed by Mr. Decker, a banker of Baldwin, to watch some timber near Glenwood, charged some of his neighbors with stealing timber. After the trial of the supposed thieves somebody made threats, which caused Bergham to disappear.

This was last June. He was not heard of until Monday, when his body was found only two miles from home. He had gone to a ledge of rock, tied a rope to a tree and around his neck and jumped off. When found only the head and shoulders were hanging, the body lying at the foot of the cliff.

POSTMASTERS' CONVENTION.

Wauseon, O., Oct. SILVER STRIKE.

Tacoma, Wash., Oct. S.—The town of Ainsworth, British Columbia, is fast becoming depopulated by news of a phenomenally rich silver strike. Five miners have arrived with samples of ore from Slocan, 18 miles west of Kaslo, on Kootenai lake. He says there is a large body of solid ore from sixteen to twenty-five feet in width and a mile and a half long. The ore assayed from 100 to 300 ounces in silver and 68S 10 per cent. in lead.

HE HAS 'EM ON THE RUN

Commercial Gazette Sued for Fifty Thousand Dollars.

Governor Campbell Takes Vigorous Steps.

Action in the Criminal Courts Will be Commenced in Cincinnati To-morrow—The Details.

Cincinnati, Oct. S.—(Special)—That Governor Campbell has his enemies and traducers on the run is patent in this city. If there ever was a divided democracy in Hamilton county it is a thing of the past and to-day the one topic of conversation is the shameful attack made on the governor by the Commercial-Gazette.

Yesterday the papers were filed in a fifty thousand dollar libel suit against that paper and to-morrow criminal action will be begun against all persons who had anything to do with the publication of the false and malicious article.

The Commercial-Gazette prints the fact that it has been sued for libel and tries to get a grain of comfort out of the fact that the New York Recorder escaped suit.

The paper will have all it can handle before this matter is settled in taking care of its own case without bothering about the New York end of the combination which executed the plan so adroitly conceived by the McKinley managers.

Information comes from Columbus that similar action to that filed against the Gazette of this city, will also be filed against the New York Press and the Recorder, as well as the Detroit Tribune.

In a Tight Place.

Detroit, Oct. S.—The Tribune this morning prints a denial of the story sent out by the alleged Wilkinson and says that "Governor Campbell's friends, who ought to know, have pronounced it a malicious libel."

Hunting for Wilkinson.

Columbus, Oct. S.—(Special)—The New York Recorder has wired its correspondent here to hunt up "this man Wilkinson" and find out what he means by circulating the stories about Governor Campbell, which met with such immediate and emphatic denial from that gentleman.

The reporter has been busily engaged hunting for this Mr. Wilkinson but nobody in Columbus has ever seen or known such a man.

Each hour of investigating seems to further convince Governor Campbell's friends that the publication was the result of a conspiracy on the part of republicans to break down his financial standing, and the fact that the blundering Commercial-Gazette was the source through which it became public, furnishes a valuable clue as to who were its instigators.

ASHORE IN A GALE.

New York, Oct. S.—The American schooner Etna went ashore last night on the point at Sandy Hook during a heavy gale. The vessel was under the command of Capt. Cowan and was bound to Chester, Pa., with a cargo of lath from Mirimichi, N. B. The crew were all landed by means of the breeches buoy by the crew of life saving station No. 1. The vessel will probably be a total wreck.

DID HIS WORK WELL.

Boston, Oct. S.—President J. Rosenfert, of section B of the Masonic order, has received word from the agent of that section recently sent to Russia instructed with important messages, to the effect that he had already set sail for America and that he has been very successful in the performance of the duties entrusted to him. On his return an important meeting will be held.

SAVED HIS NECK.

Hickman, Ky., Oct. S.—Gov. Buchanan, of Tennessee, has commuted to life imprisonment the sentences of Nathan and Woodville Tarver, who were to have been hanged in Tiptonville Friday. The sheriff has started for the scene of execution with his two prisoners, and, as Tiptonville has neither railroad nor telegraph, the commutation has been sent from this place by horse, a distance of forty miles.

MAYOR GLEASON INDICTED.

New York, Oct. S.—The grand jury of Kings county has indicted Mayor Gleason, of Long Island City, for assault to the second degree. The indictment is for assaulting Alfred Neiser, at a meeting of the board of health on June 30.

OHIO LIQUOR DEALERS

State Convention in Session in Toledo To-day.

A State Liquor League to be Organized

For the Protection of Those in the Liquor Traffic—Large Number of Delegates on Hand.

The liquor dealers of the state are holding a convention in Phoenix hall, this city, the first session being called to order this morning, with a goodly attendance of delegates from the cities and towns of the state. The convention is for the purpose of forming a State Liquor league for the mutual protection and benefit of the liquor dealers.

The following circular, which called the convention, states the object of the convention and what it is expected to accomplish:

To the Liquor Traffic of the State of Ohio:

On Monday, September 21, representatives from several of the associations of the saloon keepers in Ohio met at the Grand Central hotel, in Columbus, Ohio, for the purpose of discussing the advisability of a State Liquor league.

Mr. John Batt, of Columbus, was chosen chairman and Mr. Otto Zirker, of Cleveland, secretary of the meeting.

The necessity of united action was eloquently set forth by Mr. John Kammeron, of Cincinnati, who called attention to the fact that no business in the state was so heavily burdened as the liquor traffic. That notwithstanding the heavy load under which it labors and the many obnoxious features of legislation surrounding it, fresh difficulties constantly beset it, and new dangers threaten it. The persistent attacks of zealots who are well organized, make it absolutely necessary that those engaged in the traffic should have a counter organization which will always be alert and ready to meet any threatened encroachment which may be attempted.

He also exhibited the strength of the traffic numerically and financially, and pictured the power which could be wielded if thoroughly organized.

It was then resolved by the meeting that a convention be called for the 8th of October, 1891, at the city of Toledo, to which representatives from all liquor organizations throughout the state be invited.

The state was divided into three districts for the purpose of agitation; the associations of Cleveland, Cincinnati and Toledo each to take charge of one district and arouse the interest in the traffic.

It was agreed that the basis of representation to the convention should be three delegates from each association, and that in localities where no association exists, those engaged in the traffic should be requested to meet and send representatives.

The convention will be called to order at 10 a. m., on the 8th inst., at Phoenix hall, 306 Cherry street, Toledo, Ohio.

Respectfully,
THE COMITTEE.

The meeting was called to order this morning by Fred Wagenknecht, of this city, after which Mr. John Kammeron, of Cincinnati, was elected temporary chairman, with Mr. Otto Zirker, of Cleveland, as temporary secretary, and Mr. P. J. Gahagan, of Columbus, as assistant.

Committees were appointed on credentials, press, permanent organization, constitution and by-laws, and resolutions. Other matters of interest to the liquor dealers and the organization are being looked into by different committees.

Little else was accomplished this morning, and this afternoon several of the committees are reporting. The convention will continue to-morrow and before it concludes an organization will have been effected and permanent officers elected for the same.

The convention as a whole is a fine looking and intelligent body of men. A large number of liquor dealers are present besides the delegates and more are expected during this afternoon. The delegates who reported to-day are as follows:

OFF FOR ADA.

A fair number of Toledo democrats and republicans went over he Hocking Valley and T., C. & S. roads to Ada this morning, to listen to the joint debate between Governor Campbell and Major McKinley. The delegation was enthusastic, both sides expecting their chieftain to succeed. The Bee will give a true statement of the debate, having a representative on the ground.

VOTERS ARE REGISTERING.

The election booths, located in the various precincts of the city, were thrown open this morning for service for the first time, for the purpose of registration. The clerks were all on hand promptly to the minute, as were inspectors to enlighten voters in the new balloting system. The registration up to 1 o'clock was not very large, but will be largely increased this afternoon and evening.

PRIMARY TEACHERS.

All primary Sunday school teachers are earnestly requested to be present at the annual meeting of the association on Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the First Presbyterian church. This organization has grown very valuable since its formation, and its field may be enlarged. At the meeting on Saturday afternoon the work of the year will be discussed, and officers elected to lead the teachers during the next term.

The Non-Partisan W. C. T. U. held a special meeting at the home of Mrs. J. L. Watson, Franklin avenue, last evening to elect a delegate to the state non-partisan convention, which meets at Marysville on the 14th and 15th. Mrs. J. R. McClone was chosen to represent the society, with Mrs. S. E. Wilson as alternate. Other business was discussed, and the matter of permanent headquarters was referred to Mrs. Watson and Mrs. Farrar.

MILLS TO-MORROW NIGHT.

Democrats and Toledoans generally should not forget that Congressman Roger Q. Mills speaks at Memorial hall to-morrow night in the interest of the Democratic party. Mr. Mills is one of the most prominent advocates of tariff reform in the country, and his speech will be well worth hearing. Capt. Geo. W. Bell, who has been doing good service in this part of the state for the past few weeks, will also speak. Hon. Frank Hurd will preside. There should be an immense outpouring of the people.

A SOCIAL EVENT.

Last evening the Rosette club gave one of the most successful and enjoyable parties of the opening social season at Pythian castle. It was the fifth affair of the kind given by the club. Excellent music for the occasion was furnished by the Great Western Band of Sandusky. The officers and members of this social organization are as follows: President, J. N. Schultz; vice president, E. J. Lohr; secretary and treasurer, J. P. Reiling; F. K. Smith, F. W. Rose, F. C. Miller, A. J. Wechtel, H. Pollman, Charles G. Baither, F. W. Harms, Charles Beckel, O. L. Wittman, A. F. Engler, F. A. Emch, A. W. Ayling, F. McGrath and Del Lloyd.

LUDWIG—SCHLAGHECK.

Yesterday at St. Peter's Catholic church Mr. Frank J. Ludwig and Miss Lucy A. Schlagheck, popular young Fifth ward people, were united in marriage, Rev. Father Duenweber officiating. A reception was given in the evening at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Barney Schlagheck, 735 Vinton street. The popularity of the young couple was manifested by the number and magnificence of the wedding presents. Mr. and Mrs. Ludwig were the recipients of warm congratulations, and the Bee joins their friends in wishing them long life and happiness.

MAYOR EMMICK WILL PROCLAIM.

A petition signed by about 75 prominent citizens and tax payers has been presented to Mayor Emmick asking that at the coming election a vote be taken on the proposition to issue bonds for park purposes. Under the statutes, when such a petition is signed by 50 tax payers, the mayor is required to issue a proclamation at least 10 days before election and have a vote taken on the proposition. This petition is also endorsed by the board of park commissioners.

Mayor Emmick has signified his intention to follow the law in this matter, and will issue a proclamation, therefore the electors will have this proposition before them at the coming election.

THE EIGHTH AFTER THE SEVENTH.

J. W. Gould, ward committeeman; H. C. Ellis, central committeeman; James Austin, jr., and M. Loenshal, secretary, are out in a pleading circular to the faithful republicans of the Eighth ward to wipe the Seventh ward reps. off the body politic. They say they are after them, and if the fellows will only respond, the Seventh is doomed to destruction. The circular opens up:

"A year ago we made a desperate effort to get up to or beat our neighbor, the Seventh ward. We came near beating her. In the city and county conventions held this year we had the same number of delegates as the Seventh ward—41 each—representing over 1,200 republicans in each ward. We want to beat the Seventh this year, and can do it if you will do your simple duty."

Truly, the boys are in a bad way. However, the activity of the opposition may serve as a lesson to democrats to be up and doing.

WHY NOT IN TOLEDO, TOO?

Dr. Eyman is fulfilling the expectation of his friends in his new field of labor at the Cleveland Insane asylum. As a result of the doctors recent visit to Kankakee, an important improvement is to be made with regard to attendants. The Plain Dealer has this to say on the subject this morning:

A training school for attendants will soon be started in the Cleveland insane asylum as a result of the recent inspection of a similar school at Kankakee, Ill. Thirty-six subjects of lectures relating to all parts of the attendants' work have been selected and these lectures will be delivered for the greater part by the assistant physicians of the asylum. When the series of lectures has been delivered a new beginning will be made, so that a new attendant can begin with any lecture and complete the course. Two divisions will be made of the attendants, each division listening to one lecture a week. At each lecture the attendants will be subjected to a quiz on the preceding lecture. Those passing a satisfactory examination on the lectures and showing a good knowledge of them in practice will be rewarded by an increase of pay and permanency of engagement.

DESTROYED BY FIRE.

New York, Oct. 8.—Fire this morning at 21 o'clock destroyed the four-story brown stone mansion at 101 Fifth avenue, owned by Mrs. Haywood Cutting and occupied by Mr. and Mrs. August Belmont. Mr. Belmont was not at home, but his wife, two children and a number of servants had narrow escapes from death. Loss estimated by the police at $200,000.

AMONG THE RAILROADS.

A Good Joke on the B. & O. at Which the Alton Laughs—Local Lines.

Yesterday 28 soldiers from the barracks at Columbus left for Fort Woodward, Indian territory, under the command of Lieut. Hayden. The government made requisition for tickets via the Baltimore & Ohio, the O. & M., the Chicago & Alton and the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe railroads. District Passenger Agent Rippert of the B. & O., one of the lines that is boycotting the Alton, demurred, considering the attitude of his road toward the Alton, and at first thought to refuse to furnish the tickets as requested. The B. & O. however thought better of the matter and decided that while it was all right to buck against the Alton it wouldn't do to take up arms against the government. The C. & A. people are laughing at the manner in which the B. & O. had to take its gruel.

FOUND NOT GUILTY.

Verdict in the Case of the Defiance Rioters.

A Long and Expensive Case to the County Closed in the Courts To-day.

Defiance, Oct. 8.—(Special)—The jury in the case of the state against Frank Ferguson and Will Dolke for riot, which has been on trial since last Friday, brought in a verdict last evening of not guilty.

There have been nearly 100 witnesses examined, and the case will cost the county nearly $1,000.

The case has been closely contested from the start, and a fair and impartial trial has been accorded the defendants. It is thought the indictments against the others will be nolled.

HERE IS A REPUBLICAN

Who Believes the McKinley Tariff Robs the People.

A North Baltimore Banker and Manufacturer Who Will Not Vote the Republican Ticket This Year.

Mr. A. Schick, of North Baltimore, who is in the city on business, gives another illustration of how the poor republican cause is being jumped all over the state of Ohio. Mr. Schick is a director in the First National bank at North Baltimore, and also one-fourth owner of the Enterprise Window Glass factory of that place.

In an interview with a Bee Mr. Schick said: "I have always been a republican, but this time I shall certainly vote the democratic ticket, as will also my brother, who is associated with me. McKinley and the republican party stand for a high tariff, which is alleged to be for the benefit of manufacturers, but which is in reality highway robbery of the people. "I am a manufacturer and have $150,000 invested in the window glass business, but the high tariff does not benefit me. Even if I could get better prices under it I am free to acknowledge that this comes solely out of the pockets of the consumer. Workmen in the glass factories make from $300 to $450 per month, and are the best paid workmen in any business. Yet but very few of these men are Americans or ever intend to become American citizens. Most of them are Belgians and they refuse to let American boys learn their business. McKinley's high tariff lets these fellows come into the country and do as they please, which don't look much like protection for American workmen. I think he will go under this time, and to me it looks as though a big democratic victory is coming."

IN TRADING CIRCLES

Both at Our Home and Abroad.

Wheat Quotations for the Day—Price Current for Produce and Other Articles.

The receipts of wheat to-day at seven principal western points are 676,073 bu in excess of the corresponding Thursday in 1890.

The export clearances yesterday at four Atlantic ports were 367,568 bu of wheat and flour to an aggregate of 450,000 bu. The export of corn was 78,109 bu.

English markets as reported herein are strong and higher for wheat, and a shade higher for corn.

English Quotations Again.

In a letter from the gentleman who furnishes the Liverpool quotations to the party who cables them to this country, a copy of which we have seen, he says: "No. 2 spring wheat is based on the Chicago standard." On the 6th of October this spring wheat was quoted by this gentleman equal to 4 1-2c per bu above No. 1 California, and 14 1-2c above red winter. The utter absurdity of these quotations is illustrated by the fact that No. 2 spring wheat sells in Chicago and every other American market under No. 2 winter, and to quote so enormous a difference between that grade and winter, in the Liverpool market, and more than 4c above California, is as ridiculous as it is an imposition upon every American dealer.

Now compare this gentleman's quotations of to-day with October 6, and instead of a difference of 14 1-2c in favor of No. 2 Chicago spring compared with No. 1 California, he makes the difference 11 1-4c. October 6 Chicago spring is 4 1-2c bu. above California; October 8, 3 1-2c above. We should like to know what kind of winter wheat this gentleman intends to represent by his quotations. The whole business should be revised. The west has had enough of it, and it would be dear at any price, to pay for such cobbs.

The crop of winter wheat in this country is, perhaps, as good or better than was ever raised, and seaboard dealers cannot find inferior wheat enough to mix their shipments down to such a value.

California.

As will be seen in another column, the receipts and exports of wheat and flour at San Francisco for the week ending Sept. 30 were only one-third of late aggregates.

Immense quantities of wheat in North Dakota and Minnesota are yet in the shock, and threshers cannot be procured. The wheat is supposed to have suffered much injury.

The latest reports from English markets give strong and advancing tendency. The news generally is favorable to wheat prices, but the hungry crowd at Chicago, who lost aday yesterday are on top of the market to-day with both feet. New York is also claimed as a large seller at Chicago. Right or wrong, this preponderence of sellers has broken the markets and prices are lower. Prices do not yield easily, but act stubborn. We do not expect prices to be maintained at much over $1 01 at the lake ports, and we believe there is a wide public sentiment that will not permit much decline from that limit, extraordinaries in either direction excepted.

Corn has also been weak but the two days receipts and shipments at Chicago are not pointers for a decline.

Just before the close prices improved to a small extent. In New York Oct. and Dec. wheat each lost 7-8c. Oct. corn lost 1-4c and Nov. 3-8c. Closing prices at Chicago were Dec. 99 1-2c. Oct. corn 52 1-2c. Nov. 48 1-2c. Oct. Oats 29 1-2c.

In Toledo—The market for wheat futures has been only moderately active and without special feature. There were some sales of January and February wheat in addition to the usual trading in December and May.

Prices close 1-4 to 1-2c easier. On the call December sold at $1 02 3-4 to $1 03, closing at $1 02 5-8 bid, a loss of 1-4c. January sold at $1 04 to $1 03 7-8. February at $1 05 3-8; May at $1 09, closing at $1 08 3-4, a loss of 1-4c.

Cash wheat was fairly active, opening 1-4c and closing 1-2c lower. No. 2 soft at 90 3-4@90 1-2c. No. 3 soft at 90@95 1-2c. Rejected No. 1 at 85c. No. 2 white at 95 1-2c.

TOOK IT IN EVIDENCE.

People Should be Careful What They Testify to in Court.

Oakland, Cal., Oct. 8.—In the divorce suit of George C. Pratt against Bertha C. Pratt, his wife, whom he accuses of illicit relations with L. L. Bromwell, president of the California Insurance company, Judge Ellsworth yesterday ruled that the alleged confession of Mrs. Pratt should be admitted in evidence, and the confession was then read.

In it she professes to tell of her meetings with Bromwell. Her counsel asserted that the confession was written at the time of the trial of Pratt for shooting Bromwell some months ago; that it was designed to secure Pratt's acquittal on that charge; that it was obtained from Mrs. Pratt by force, and therefore should not be admitted in evidence.

The court overruled the counsel, holding that while influence was undoubtedly used to secure the confession, such influence did not amount to duress. The affair is attracting considerable attention.

Great day at Ada to day—great democratic day.

Halstead is out of the state but the ghost of the blunderer still lingers around the Commercial Gazette office.

Put your X mark by the side of the head of the democratic ticket and you will do your whole duty to your state and country.

An Ohio man bought Piqua tin roofing for his barn and sent it back in high dungeon, with affidavit that "it was not tin or anything approaching to it." Tin, tin, republican tin.

Mr. Charles Augustus Flickinger may have been a very successful admiral of canal state boats, but he is hardly big enough to be a mate on the craft sailed by Jacob Romeis.

The democrats of Lucas county have as good a ticket as ever was offered for the suffrages of the people, and in the interest of good government and lower taxes the whole ticket should be elected.

Hon. Grayson Mills, of Sandusky, is the democratic candidate for common pleas judge. The peer of any man on the bench in this district, he should be elected by a large majority.

The first duty of every democrat is to register. After that vote, and vote straight. You can register to-day. The other registration days this year are October 15, 23 and 24.

If there is any good reason why Lucas county should send Mr. Griffin to the legislature a third term it has not been made public. It is true certain corporations may need him there but the taxpayers do not.

Notwithstanding John Sherman is regarded as the ablest republican financier in the United States senate, there are several republican bankers in Toledo who are openly opposed to his re-election. Singular.

It is characteristic of the republican leaders to attack Gov. Campbell because he is a poor man. McKinley has always been a willing tool of the wealthy lobbyists in Washington and it is not surprising that his lieutenants are now attacking Mr. Campbell. But it is not a crime in Ohio to be poor, as the election will prove.

There is no doubt that the attack upon Gov. Campbell's credit was instigated by persons high in republican authority. The scoundrels are hiding, but the Governor will chase them from cover, and the conspiracy to ruin him will be fully exposed. Suits for libel have been ordered by Mr. Campbell against the New York Recorder and Press, the Detroit Tribune and the Cincinnati Commercial-Gazette.

Congressman Springer, in his speech in Hamilton, Ohio, Tuesday night, said:: "I want it understood that if it is to be the policy of this government to pay bounties I shall insist that the farmer must have a bounty for producing corn and wheat and pork, as well as for producing sugar." And why not?

A campaign orator is telling his audiences how thankful the housewife should be to the republican party for removing the tariff from sugar—it has been made so cheap she can "put up" all the fruit she has a mind to. The housewife might tell the orator and his party how thankful she would be if they would take the tariff from other necessaries of life. Strange anamoly: to remove the tax lowers the price of a commodity, and to retain or enhance the tax has exactly the same effect.

Germany can't raise Indian corn because the climate is not suited for it. Corn is a cheap and healthful food but it must be taxed out of the country because it would interfere with the home market for breadstuffs which can be raised in Germany. And why should our own protectionists find fault with this? The bleaching of fine linen is an utter impossibility in this country except under expensive artificial conditions. Only in the cool, perpetually humid climate of north Ireland and Scotland can the work be done cheaply and successfully. Yet these linens are taxed to buyers, to "protect home industry." And, as in Germany, the home breadstuffs must be cared for, even at the cost of a starving peasantry, so in America the poor must wear shoddy garments because it is not profitable to raise certain grades of wool in this country. Democrats know the fallacy of the whole business, and republicans show ill grace in denouncing German economists for following their example.

REPUBLICAN FATHERS ON THE TARIFF.

According to the testimony of the wisest and best men in the republican party before the days of its degeneracy, the present prohibitive tariff is not only un-American, but it is un-republican, even in a partisan sense. In 1857 Henry Wilson said:

I think American labor will be best protected by taking all the necessaries of life totally, placing the raw materials on which our manufactures depend on the free list, raising revenues to support the government upon articles that come in competition with our manufactures, and upon the luxuries of life which are consumed by the more wealthy classes of society. * * * We want all those articles that enter as raw materials into the manufactures of this country free of duty, so that the country can stand on an equality in the markets of the world with the other nations of the world.

Gen. Grant said in his sixth annual message:

Fine wools, dyes, etc., which enter into the manufacture of the higher grade of woolen goods should be placed on the free list.

In his seventh message he reiterated the sentiment and said further:

The duty on raw material comes not only from the consumer at home but acts as a protection to foreign manufacturers of the same completed articles in our own and distant markets.

Roger Q. Mills could scarcely make more radical avowal.

President Garfield proclaimed it as his tariff creed that

Every revision of the tariff should be in the direction of free trade.

In a speech in the House of Representatives in March, 1870, Mr. Allison said:

The tariff of 1846, although confessedly and professedly a tariff for revenue only, was, so far as regards the great interests of the country, as perfect a tariff as any we have ever had.

George William Curtis, whom the party organs are again calling a brilliant statesman because he has declared for Fassett, said, the other day:

At present we import one-half to two-thirds of the wool used in our woolen manufactures. Certain wools essential to finer fabrics we do not produce. The duty ranges from 40 to 60 cents per pound, and it operates as an advantage to the foreign manufacturer, or protects him as against his American competitor. If the American could obtain the wool free he could compete successfully with the foreigner, and greatly increase the demand for American labor.

And to close these expressions of the republican fathers on the tariff, a second quotation is made from President Garfield:

When I was a member of the ways and means committee, every person who came before that committee to get protective taxes put on or increased, came in the basest selfishness, without a thought or care except to get higher prices for his own wares from his own countrymen.

The men who put up the money for Mr. McKinley's campaign are the beneficiaries of his law, and they are the American laborers whom he served every day of his official life, and whom he is serving now. They are the persons who have resolved in his favor. They are the smooth-handed sons of government favors who labor with riches which the McKinley law helps filch from the pockets of the real American laborers. They are class-men. McKinley is an out and out class man. He is not and never was in sympathy with true labor. He is a political fraud and his law is a business monstrosity.

Caesar Had Better Start Out.

The Boston Republican, one of the organs of the colored men of this state, says that "the republican party will render to Caesar the things that are Caesar's, if Caesar has sense and sagacity enough to start out for it, determined to have it." It does not indicate the method by which this is to be accomplished, but it agrees with the general opinion that Caesar thus far has suffered badly, and that Pompey and Scipio have fared no better. Roman names don't save a man when the color of his skin is not satisfactory.—Boston Herald.

Cannot Be Consummated.

Many Knights of Labor in Pennsylvania have signed a protest against Powderly's deal with Quay. The record of the Pennsylvania senator is too well known for the rank and file of the Knights to acquiesce in any compact with him. The deal cannot be consummated. Mr. Powderly will find that he cannot deliver the organization of which he is the head to a machine politician such as Quay.—New Orleans New Delta.

Platt and His Young Man.

"Talk about Tammany," was Platt's instruction to his young man Fassett; "and the people won't think about me." Unfortunately for the Ross, Fassett isn't doing all the talking in this campaign. The Tammany bugaboo has been worked too often. The people are thinking about Platt, and the more they think the bigger will be the majority against his young man.—New York World.

"That Tired Feeling."

The New York Recorder printed a picture yesterday of James G. Blaine, of whom it remarks, by way of news, that "his name and fame have filled two continents." Mr. Blaine doesn't look like a very sick man in the picture, excepting that the eyes betoken a tired, languid feeling, as though weary of looking for something that never comes.—Washington Post.

Monument to Enterprise.

The Toledo Bee, one of the very best daily papers in Ohio, has so prospered that it was compelled to provide enlarged quarters in which to do business. A new building, therefore, was built expressly for it, and last week it took possession. The building is a monument to the enterprise of the Bee company and an ornament to Toledo. We congratulate the Bee on its marked success, as well as upon its steady-going democracy.—Wayne County Democrat.

"Too Late, John."

Sherman sees the storm coming and with his usual foresight and prudence is preparing to get under shelter. He has begun to try to fool the people once more. He now says, "I am a free trader." By next year he will claim to be the author of the Mills bill. Too late, John! The people are on to you. Your goose is cooked.—Zanesville Signal.

But They Will Not.

The present school book law passed by the late democratic legislature of Ohio will save the people, or the parents of school children, not less than a million of dollars, and yet the republicans are abusing that body at a round rate and calling upon the people to condemn it.—Youngstown Vindicator.

The Bee a First-Class Newspaper.

The Toledo Bee has swarmed into a new hive of its own. It is a first-class newspaper, having worked up to deserve its good fortune. A credit in itself to the city of Toledo, it has now an abiding place equally creditable and so the unities are preserved. —Sandusky Journal.

We Are Thinkers This Year.

According to the Chicago Inter Ocean, "Ohio is a State of Thinkers." It looked that way the last time Campbell ran for governor, and no doubt it will look so again in November, but sometimes Ohio has seemed very thoughtless indeed.—St. Louis Republic.

The Puny, Protective Infant.

The condition of Mr. Blaine's health is made the excuse for dodging the consideration of reciprocity with Canada. But the real motive for postponement is the fear that any further reciprocity medicine might kill the protective infant.—Philadelphia Record.

Of Course, Yes.

By the way, what is Secretary Foster going to do about the importation of those Welch contract laborers by Protectionist Niedringhaus of St. Louis? Are the immigration restrictions valueless when violated by a republican protect?—Chicago Mail.

This is Good Business Sense.

No tin plate is made in America. There ought to be, though, and it ought to be made without the American people paying a bounty of $15,000,000 to those who want to engage in its manufacture.—Mansfield Shield and Banner.

It Keeps Them Busy.

The democratic papers go right along publishing facts, and the republican sheets, having started out on the falsifying basis, are kept busy denying, to keep the bottom from falling out of their whole organization.—Lima Times.

What Labor Can Do.

The tariff was raised on the pretense of paying higher wages to American workingmen. It has proved a fraud. Monopoly takes all the increased profits and labor can bite its thumb.—New York World.

MILLS IN NAPOLEON.

Splendid Speech Delivered in Henry County.

The Most Enthusiastic Meeting Ever Held There.

High Tariff and High Taxes Receive a Telling Blow at the Hands of the Texas Congressman.

Napoleon, Oct. 8.—(Special)—Hon. Roger Q. Mills discussed the tariff question at the Rink opera house last evening. Despite the inclement weather, the crowd that packed the house was the largest that has ever turned out to a political speech in Henry county.

Farmers from all parts of the county were present, and in this they were not confined to democratic farmers alone.

Life long republicans, who were never known to tarry when a democratic speech was on tap, traveled across the whole county to hear this great tariff exponent.

His name has long since been one synonymous with tariff reform, and the democratic central committee felt itself and Henry county especially favored when a dispatch was received from Chairman Neal, of the state executive committee, announcing that this tariff leader of national and international reputation would give us a talk for which the democrats were hugry, while the news was received by republicans with no little interest.

Mr. Mills arrived on the 4 o'clock train and was met at the depot by the executive committee and the Sixteenth regiment band. He was escorted to the Miller house, and again, after supper to the opera house.

The rear of the stage was occupied by the old wheel horses of democracy and republicanism. The speaker was introduced by Judge Donnelly, who, before so doing, briefly and concisely called attention to the mighty political battle that is being waged throughout the great commonwealth—a battle, the outcome of which affected not only our own state, but the nation as well.

Mr. Mills spoke nearly two hours and his hearers could not have been more attentive and interested.

He plunged at once into the subject with,

"Ladies and Fellow Citizens of Ohio: The contest in Ohio is one of national importance. The issue is between the two parties, represented by McKinley and Campbell." He then briefly stated the positions of the two great parties and proceeded to deal in real earnest with the followers of republicanism, and place the true and tenable doctrine of democracy before his listeners for consideration and thought.

He maintained that the tariff as viewed by McKinley et al, was a means first to protect the manufacturers, and secondly, to raise money for the support of the federal government; while the one point held by the democracy from the time of Thomas Jefferson was, that tariff is only a legitimate measure when used to defray the expenses of an economical government. He then submitted some statistics which spoke for themselves in demonstrating the monstrosity of the present robber tariff in taking from the pockets of our millions of laborers, and placing the wealth earned by them and needed by them in the struggle for sustenance, in the capacious coffers of a few monied men, who by fact and corrupt use of money are enabled to throttle legislation in favor of the vast majority.

"The great triumvirate that controlled this unjust taxation," he said, "is the cotton, woollen and iron manufacturers. Before all others these three had full control, and why?"

He explained the reason, giving the many uses to which these productions are put—their great demand by the people, and then by quoting sections of the McKinley bill it was seen that these commodities are taxed the highest.

His explosion of the erroneous "low tariff, low wages" theory was complete, and even old republicans who had preached the "high tariff for protection to the laborer" for years from their back yards were noticed to nod their heads involuntarily. When the congressman had finished this portion of the speech with, "If any republican can show me how and by what conceivable means the $6.70 per ton duty on pig iron finds its way into the pockets of the wage-earner, then will I renounce all claims to democracy and from now until election stump Ohio in favor of McKinley."

He scoffed at the shallow tenets of "infant republicans that by building up "infant industries" enough aliens could come to this country to consume all the production. "Why," said he, "to arrive at such a condition, our countries in Europe would unreasonably be depopulated."

Touching on the tin-plate boomerang, he gave a score of reasons why it was impossible to make it a successful industry in a country where the raw material was comparatively unknown, and predicted that when the youngest child in the audience shall have reached the age allotted to mankind, the "tin-plate infant industry" would be roaming around the halls of congress searching after more protection.

He talked some time to the farmers, in which talk he called their attention by statistics and citations within their own recollection of how the valuation of farm lands have been steadily depreciating, and their mortgages have been rapidly increasing until the aggregate mortgaged property now in existence is startling and almost inconceivable.

The peroration of Mr. Mills was eloquent and one that summed up the arguments of the evening in a clear-cut style that could not be misunderstood.

He appealed to the judgment of conservative republicans and importuned them to join the democratic phalanx and assist in overthrowing the vampire tariff that has so long held the American people under bondage in restricting equal trade with foreign nations, thus hampering commerce and repudiating the natural laws of trade.

This speech was greeted with applause that shook the very foundation of the opera house. It was an effort of which only the author of the Mills tariff bill is capable.

THE COMMITTEE ON PRICES

Fix Rates For Churches, China Kilns and Bakeries.

At the session of the natural gas committee on prices last evening, rates were fixed for churches, china kilns and bakeries.

In all these institutions fuel is used only at intervals, and it was necessary to make special rates.

It was decided after some discussion to make the rate to churches at 8 cents, the city to supply the meters free.

Bakeries and china kilns will be supplied at the same rate as that established by the Northwestern gas company.

JOINED THE ARMY.

An Ohio Boy Among the Latest Second Lieutenants.

Washington, Oct. 8.—The result of the recent examination of the 20 young men for appointment as second lieutenants in the army has not yet been officially announced. It is understood, however, that 10 of the number passed as follows:

George W. Cole, of Missouri, member of national guard of Missouri, and graduate of Missouri state university; Wm. Brooks, of Pennsylvania, son of Gen. Brooke, and First lieutenant, Third infantry, Pennsylvania national guard; John S. Mirdock, of Connecticut, graduate of Sheffield Scientific school, Yale university; Harrison J. Price, of New York, graduate Ohio Normal university; W. H. Simons, of South Carolina, graduate of South Carolina Military academy; Wm. M. Crofton, of Illinois, son of Col. Robert E. A. Crofton, Fifteenth infantry; John Madden, of California, graduate of the University of California; Wm. Wallace of Indiana, nephew of Gen. Lew Wallace; W. C. Short, of Ohio, member of First artillery, Ohio state troops and graduate of Michigan Military academy; Ferdinand W. Kobbe, of Delaware, son of Capt. W. A. Kobbe, Third artillery and graduate of Shattuck, Wis.

These young men will probably be commissioned second lieutenants and sent to Fort Leavenworth for instruction, preparatory to being sent to regiments for duty.

TEN MILES OF PIPE.

More Contracts Will Probably be Awarded.

The Natural Gas Committee on City Plant Holds an Interesting Session and Makes Some Recommendations.

The natural gas committee on prices and city plant held prolonged sessions yesterday afternoon and evening, and transacted a great deal of important business.

The city plant committee last evening recommended the building of the following feeders under a proposition submitted:

850 feet 8-inch pipe on Bush, from Erie to Superior.

1,050 feet 8-inch pipe on Orange, from Erie to Ostrich Lane.

850 feet 6-inch pipe on Nevada, from Plymouth to Raymer.

2,900 feet 6-inch pipe on Western avenue, from Field to Sumner.

1,050 feet 4-inch pipe on Dicks, from Crittenden to Broadway.

600 feet 6-inch pipe on South Oak, from Nevada to Williams.

320 feet 6-inch pipe on Franklin, from Bancroft to Prescott.

320 feet 6-inch pipe on Prescott, from Franklin west to alley.

Two lines 20,000 feet 3-inch pipe on Sumner, from Walnut to Sugar avenue.

It will remain optional with the board to extend the contract under the same terms to the extent of ten miles.

A second proposition to furnish and lay pipe was also submitted and it was referred to the manager to investigate and report.

A proposition from R. W. Smith to build 8-inch, 12-inch and 14-inch lines in lower town was recommended to the board for adoption.

Superintendent O'Hearn was instructed to lay lines on the following streets:

Alley between Oak and Felt, East Toledo.

Lincoln addition, East Toledo.

Wakneen, Oak to John.

Franklin avenue, 50 feet.

A 6-inch line on East Broadway.

Fifty feet on Franklin avenue.

West Washington, 60 feet north on Forest avenue.

The recommendations will be presented to the board at its meeting this evening and probably will be adopted.

COSTLY ELECTRIC LIGHT.

Judiciary Committee Makes an Effort to Equalize Assessments.

The council committee on judiciary met last evening, transacting a large amount of business. The most important matter before the committee was that of assessing for electric light. This had been referred to the committee for the purpose of making some equalization on corner lots. The assessment for the past year was made by the foot frontage according to the law. Last winter a law was passed placing 50 per cent. of the electric lighting on the general taxes and providing that corner lots should only pay on one-half of their frontage. This law, however did not cover the lighting of the past year.

Mr. Macomber, who had the assessment ordinance referred to the committee, wanted some action taken to lessen the burden on corner lots, as the assessment made would be practically confiscation of some property.

The city solicitor, however, opposed tampering with the assessment ordinance in any manner as any such action would endanger the whole assessment.

After much discussion the committee decided to approve the assessment, and then appointed Messrs. Morgan, Macomber and Hartford a committee to make a schedule of the assessments on corner lots and propose some plan for abatements.

A claim of Degman & Boice for $721.37 interest on the Hawley street sewer was referred to the city auditor.

A claim of the same kind from John Streicher for $319.10 on the contract for paving Erie street from Adams to Orange was allowed.

Judge Cummings appeared before the committee representing Mrs. Cummings, who owns the westerly 33 feet of Fifteenth street which it is desired to open. At his suggestion Messrs. Huberich, Bay and Morgan were appointed a sub-committee to confer with Mrs. Cummings and J. M. Gloyd and endeavor to settle the matter.

A number of claims for abatement of assessments were acted upon.

BACK FROM ALASKA.

Lieutenant Schwatka Tells of the Progress Made.

Victoria, B. C., Oct. 8.—Lieut. Schwatka has just returned from Alaska and in the account of his trip says:

"We explored about 500 or 600 miles of totally unknown country and, of course, a good deal on each side. We have secured a thorough map, which was taken by Dr. Hayes of the geological survey at Washington.

"A large collection of botanical specimens was made and photographs taken of everything of interest. The most important feature of the whole trip was the successful breaking through of the St. Elias ranges, a feat never before accomplished by man. All the party are well. The journey was hazardous in the extreme and full of danger at times."

OHIO SYNOD.

Bellevue, O., Oct. 8.—The Ohio synod of the Reformed church met in annual session in the St. Paul's Reformed church here last evening, and will continue the remainder of the week. The attendance is large.

The opening sermon was preached by the retiring president, Rev. J. J. Leberman, D. D., of Louisville, O.

Rev. D. Van Horn, D. D., of Tiffin, was elected president of the synod for the ensuing year, and Rev. James H. Steele, Alpha, O., was elected corresponding secretary.

CLARKSON AND QUAY.

Washington, Oct. 8.—Senator Quay and Hon. John S. Clarkson, acting chairman of the national republican committee, are here. Mr. Clarkson says a meeting of the committee to be held in Washington will probably be called for the latter part of November. This meeting will elect a successor to Chairman Quay and fix the date and place for holding the next national republican convention.

FOR FORESTRY PURPOSES.

Washington, Oct. 8.—Commissioner Carter, of the general land office, to-day telegraphed the register and receiver of the land office at Glenwood Springs, Col., to reserve for forestry purposes from disposal until further orders nearly 1,200 acres of land in the Colorado, situated at the headwaters of the White river. The register is further directed to report all entries that have been allowed within the reservation since November 30.

NATHANIEL CREARY DEAD.

Defiance, Oct. 8.—Nathaniel Creary, aged 70 years, died at his home in Hicksville, this county, yesterday morning. He was a prominent Universalist and a preacher of marked ability. He was widely known, having in former years preached in nearly every county in the state. He was among the joint debaters and had met many prominent ministers in defense of the doctrines of his church.

INCENDIARY FIRE.

Indianapolis, Oct. 8.—An incendiary fire at Washington, Daviess county, destroyed the court house together with all the records. The fire was started simultaneously in the office of the recorder and auditor and only a few of the records from the clerk's, sheriff's and treasurer's office were saved. The loss on buildings $125,000.

LOCAL LABOR NEWS.

No Settlement as Yet in the Tailors' Strike.

The K. of L. and the Machinists' Union Make Elaborate Arrangements for Their Grand Ball—The Painters To-Night.

There is nothing new in the status of the strike of journeymen tailors. The men are still out, and at a meeting in Druid hall last night decided to stay out until their demands were granted. A majority of the employers are willing to grant the demand, but owing to the ironclad agreement entered into, one cannot sign without securing the signature of all. The strikers recognize this fact, and yesterday the committee on strike was engaged in visiting the outlying tailoring establishments with a view of getting them to sign the agreement. But as long as one remains it looks as if the trouble might continue to exist for a day or two longer.

The machinists, at their regular meeting in Turley's hall last evening, perfected arrangements for the grand ball to be given at Pythian Castle, November 12. The following committee on arrangements was appointed: G. H. Dever, R. H. Hopkins, J. J. Brunschwiger, W. D. Gemmill, J. A. McMichael. The reception committee is composed of A. Nutt, R. C. Duguid, H. Bess and A. G. Otto, and the floor committee of M. F. Hayes, C. O. Wolcott, R. H. Cole, H. E. Irin, Louis Sickaid, A. Cowan and J. B. Whipple.

The Painters' union, No. 7, gives a grand ball at Clark's hall this evening, and a large attendance is anticipated. The boys should be liberally patronized.

The Carpenters' and the Stonecutters' unions both held brief business meetings last evening, and considered nothing but general routine matters.

The meeting of L. A. 10062 last evening was attended by a large number. Rain and mud makes no difference to the Joiners when they have work to do. As it was the first meeting of the new quarter, the reports of the financial and other officers for the third quarter of 1891 were received. The local has increased its membership, and has a good surplus of funds. None of its members are ill or out of work. Several applications were received last night from ladies desiring cooks and other help.

Misses Josie Shehan and Kate Collins, committee on initiatory entertainment, reported, and it was decided to hold this entertainment next Wednesday evening. There will be progressive euchre playing, from 8 to 10 p. m., and dancing from 10 to 12. This is for the friends of the assembly only, and no admission fee is charged.

The committee on the November dance, for the General Assembly, Misses Skehan, Speckhardt, Meyers, for L. A. 10062, and Miss Kilmyroth, Messrs. Fresch and Redmond for L. A. 1942, reported that they had secured the Pythian room for Wednesday evening, Nov. 11. There will be full orchestral music, and General Master Workman Powderly will lead the grand march.

On motion it was decided to hold another open meeting on the last Wednesday in October, and to invite the lady teachers of the manual training school to be present to talk upon the subject of evening classes at the school for girls who work through the day, to teach cooking and sewing. A general invitation to attend this meeting will be extended to all working girls, and a special invitation to the members of the working girls' union.

Four of the Dead Bodies Brought Up.

They Were Badly Burned and Mutilated and the Others Have Doubtless Met a Similar Fate.

Pottsville, Pa., Oct. 8.—After four days and nights of unceasing labor, and some hundreds of tons of coal had been removed by the rescuing party, the bodies of four of the unfortunate miners imprisoned last Saturday at Richardson colliery, Glen Carbon, were found at 10:30 last night.

There was great rejoicing when news was sent to the surface that the imprisoned miners had been reached, but soon turned to sadness and grief when it became known that the men were dead and that the bodies only of four of the six had been found, badly mutilated but yet recognizable, as those of John Purcell, John Lawler, Joseph Shields and James Salmon.

The rescuing party are working with renewed vigor for the recovery of the bodies of Thomas Claney and Mihael Welsh, and there is every prospect of reaching them to-day.

CIVILIZATION IN NEW YORK.

Civilization is a New York police station! Just think of it! Nay, that novelty touched two of the official tollgates where sin and sorrow pause on their way to punishment.

When poor, bewhiskeyed females were brought into the Oak and Elizabeth street police stations Monday evening, instead of being pawed over in the olden fashion by bluecoated men, who might be men and might be ruffians, the gong was sounded and a neatly dressed and kind hearted woman came down to search their clothing for secreted liquor or other articles contraband of war. They were then led by these women, the new police matrons, who have at last been appointed after strong opposition, to their cells, and all night long the eyes of one of their own sex watched over them.

It is a long step forward, and one which can never be retraced. It is a step toward decency and a step toward safety. It recognizes what no one, not even a police officer can safely overstep—the sacred boundaries of a woman's soul. Its makes our station houses safer places than they were for female prisoners, and it takes one of the most repugnant duties from the shoulders of their captors.

The police matrons have come to stay.—New York Herald.

It's a Bad Dose, Though.

There is probably nothing in the story that Tom Reed thinks of resigning his seat in Congress. Of course it was not his expectation that he would have to abide by his own rules when he made them, but it is believed that the ex-speaker is the kind of fellow who will take his medicine rather than squeal.—Kansas City Star.

MR. BREWER'S COMPLIMENTS.

We don't like some newspapers' style of campaign argument. We usually find our sense of propriety in this line most severely tried by the papers of the democratic persuasion, and attribute their jeering, mud-slinging, belittling twaddle to lack of real argument on their side, and we're not far wrong when we think so. But we occasionally see a republican paper, edited by boys or men unfamiliar with the tide of political events, and who yet feel their obligation to say something, resorting to this style of balderdash in an attempt to make the public believe they are doing the party service. This was illustrated Saturday evening in the Toledo Blade's report of a democratic meeting at Air Line Junction, addressed by John W. Canary the night before. The report was long, labored, and replete with—not a thought nor idea which could convey any instruction to the reader—but with alleged witticisms as "making the Wood county Canary sing," and much such buffoonery. There's no argument, no instruction in such stuff. John W. Canary is a high-toned, educated gentleman, and there's little to be made by making idiotic grimaces at such a man through a newspaper. Let us have this campaign fought out on political issues, and without resort to mud-slinging, or nonsensical impudence and foolishness. We hope that McKinley year marks the death blow to that style of campaigning.—Bowling Green Sentinel, Rep.

ACCIDENTS IN CHICAGO.

More Persons Killed in the Tunnel.

Two More Lives Crushed Out and a Third Person Badly Injured.

Chicago, Oct. 8.—One man was killed yesterday and several injured, some of them it is feared fatally, through the overcrowding of the cable cars bound for Lincoln park. G. B. Banks, while riding on the front end of a trailer attached to one of the many northbound trains, fell from the footboard while the train was going through the La Salle street tunnel, and was crushed to death.

Shortly after Banks was killed a similar accident occurred, the victim this time being Adolph Marks, who was so seriously injured internally that he died.

Later in the afternoon a northbound car was run into by a cable train as it entered the tunnel, and A. N. Dresser and Wolf Fishback, who had been standing on the platform, were thrown to the ground. Dresser's left knee was badly crushed, and Fishback's back was so badly injured that he may die.

SHORT IN HIS ACCOUNTS.

A Newtown, Conn., Official Has Made Himself Scarce.

Bridgeport, Conn., Oct. 8.—Town Treasurer L. B. Botts, of Newtown, is missing. There is a shortage of several thousand dollars in his accounts with the town, which his bondsmen will be held responsible for.

Botts was also treasurer of the Episcopal church, and a large amount of its funds is also missing. Just how much Botts has embezzled is not known, but it will reach a large amount. Speculation led to the crime. The missing man is 45 years old and has a family.

AB OUT DRINKING-WATER.

Large Cities Investigating Their Water Supply—Discovery of Diseas Germs—Smaller Cities Also in Danger.

New York and other cities are now agitating the very serious question of their water supply. Investigation has brought to light the fact that impure matters, in spite of expensive attempts at prevention, will find their way into the streams from which the water supply is drawn. It has been thought for years that a stream running in the open air, will cleanse itself partly by settling of the impure matter and partly by aration but it has recently been decided by the proper authorities that no such process of self purification takes place.

As in most places the water supply is drawn from streams which pass through and where cattle, horses or sheep graze, a very general movement has taken place throughout the United States towards the purification of water for drinking purposes in the home itself. The most popular and effective method to do this is little pure whiskey with the water; filtration if second hand, and get rid of the presence of poisonous nitrates. It is to be impressed on all those who take this method of preserving their health that the whiskey used must be pure. Duff's Pure Malt Whiskey is highly recommended by leading doctors and scientists as being the purest medicinal whiskey on the market. It cures headaches, nervousness, lassitude, sore throat, pains in the back and many of the ailments but troublesome ills frequently have their origin in impure drinking water. The mixing of a little Duff's Pure Malt Whiskey with drinking water will render it impossible for spreading fevers or even the worst effects of typhoid fever and other malignant fevers of the same type. By the by it will be well to remember when you call at your druggist's or grocer's for Duff's Pure Malt Whiskey, that it is the only pure medicinal whiskey and do not be willing to take a substitute even if recommended as "just as good."

A PRESSURE GAUGE.

Persons Ought to Understand It.

A gauge registers the pressure. An engine requiring pressure of 160 will no work at pressure of 40. So with the human body and the nerves. We live, move, work, by nerve force. When the nerve force and power are at full pressure we enjoy good health. When this life force is at low ebb, when by overwork, strain, malaria, dissipation or other cause, we have weakened and exhausted our nerve power, we are weak, tired, nervous, sleepless, wake mornings exhausted, without appetite, bowels costive, kidneys out of order. Nervous debility and exhaustion is simply a condition of low nerve force—a relaxed and enervated state. In other words, the pressure of steam—nerve force—has run low in our bodies, and it is necessary to take Dr. Greene's Nervura, the great Nerve, Brain and Blood Invigorator.

To restore strength, it is the best tonic and invigorator ever discovered. Purely vegetable, harmless. Sold by all druggists, $1.00.

Cured After Twenty-Four Years.

GREENVILLE, Ohio, Jan. 17, 1890.

Dr. J. W. Bergen, Petersburg, Ind.:

DEAR SIR: I have been afflicted with Asthma 24 years, and within the last year have not been able to work more than half the time, and had almost given up all hope of ever getting any better. But by the advice of Baker, a fellow boy, who told me to write to Dr. S. B. Lowis, Evansville, Ind., and get your address, which I did—and the Asthma Cure—and have been taking it nine weeks, and have not had an attack, have not lost a day's work; have gained ten pounds and feel as though the medicine had made a permanent cure.

Yours truly,

LONG AGO.

In her lap gran'ma did hol' me;
Smoothed my apron down—just so;
Had me tell my hair's then to'e me—
She's a May queen—long ago;
When they had May queens, you know,
Long ago, long, long ago.

Granma's hair is this an' so white,
An' her face is—puckered so;
But she's sweeter, by enuff sight,
Than some younger folks I know.
Don't you see how dandeli'n blow—
Turn their gold all into snow?
Granma's hair—it done jes' so,
Long ago, long, long ago.

Hair was golden, like the sunlight
Eyes wuz blue, an' cheeks wuz red;
An' her skin wuz smooth as so white—
That is jes' as granma said.
A rin white from tip to toe.
She was May queen, long ago,
Long ago, long, long ago.

Jes' like fairies in green bowers,
Singin' dancin' on the green,
Pleckin out the brightest flowers
For to deck their little queen.
Lads and lassies 'round they go,
Dancin', singin', bowin' low,
Long ago, long, long ago.

Gran'ma stops. "I'm tired," says she;
"Now go away, dearie." An' I go—
But it's queer what she can see now,
Lookin' far off an' sighin' so;
An' I hear her whisperin' low:
"Pa, y, Betsy, John an' Jo,
Gone all gone, so long ago,
Long ago, long, long ago."

Land titles run back a long way on the peninsula of Delaware and Maryland. One Aldrich, a farmer in northern Delaware, sold a farm not many years ago, and the title deeds that he passed were dated well back into the seventeenth century, and they bore the signature of the Indian chief from whom the land was originally bought. The property up to the recent sale had descended in the family by inheritance. When the United States government was seeking to erect a structure on Wallop's island, a sand patch off the coast of Accomac county, Virginia, one Saxe came along with a seventeenth century title, and gave no end of trouble before his claims were satisfied.

SEVEN DIALS.

A Curious Market in the London Slums,

Where the Poorest of the Poor Deal.

A Sight That Can Only be Produced by the Great Metropolis—A Howling Mob All Anxious to Buy or Sell.

The many great markets of London, especially Covent Garden, are justly famed for their size, the business done, and the wonderful displays of everything in the way to eat. The market, however, that presents one of the most curious and interesting scenes to the casual traveler and sightseer is that held at Seven Dials, but of which little has been written and which the guide-books hardly mention. Seven Dials is a square lying midway between the Strand and New Oxford street and in the heart of one of London's poorest districts, notwithstanding the fact that it is also in the business center of the great city. One of London's peculiarities is the fact that some of its slums are immediately surrounded by fine business streets and great public institutions.

From the center of this square a person can look up seven different intersecting streets and if you ask the big blue coated policeman he will tell you that there once stood in this square a clock with seven dials, one facing each street, the principal ones being St. Andrews street, Queen and Earl streets.

Market is held in St. Andrews street and Earl street, just off the square and extending for some distance, also reaching back into the alleys and around the corners of other intersecting streets. This is solely a poor man's market and here are found small tradesmen of all kinds, fakirs of every kind and skin games as well.

The market is held from Monday morning until Sunday noon and is liveliest during the night and Sunday morning. The dingy buildings on each side are occupied by small shops, principally grocers, butchers and second hand dealers.

There are no stalls but the market takes up the whole of the street making it impassable for vehicles and it is a task for a person to get through on foot.

One bright Sunday morning a Bee strolling that way suddenly found himself in the midst of a mob, making the most terrific din imaginable. The first thought was of a riot but a second glance showed that the apparently excited crowd was engaged in the more peaceful occupation of trade.

Before another look could be obtained the innocent American newspaper man was violently jerked into a second hand clothing store, the enterprising proprietor of which insisted that he should buy a seedy overcoat, while the meat man next door importuned him to buy a "tuppeny roast" of beef.

Not being in need of either articles he declined to buy and was allowed to go and make room for more profitable customers. As stated in a previous paragraph, the street was crowded from wall to wall with ragged people and ragged goods of every description. One portion of the mob was noisily crying their wares while the other portion was making purchases in a manner hardly less excited.

The shop windows and doors were wide open, with a large part of the stock displayed on the sidewalk, while the less fortunate dealers displayed their "truck" in the street, only a very small passage being left for the buyers to crowd through.

Every person in the crowd except the policeman, was ragged and dirty, while poverty and squalor was stamped on every face.

The stuff on sale was of the most varied description and included everything, from pins, buttons, and faded ribbons to broken down horses that seemed ready to drop in their tracks. He is a shaving sore fakir with his face covered with lather, next him is an alleged dentist pulling teeth free for everybody who would trust themselves to his clutches and the vicious-looking wrench with which he extracted the molars; there were patent medicine doctors in plenty and any quantity of second-hand clothing and shoe peddlers and hucksters disposing of decaying meats, fruits and vegetables at wonderfully low prices. You could buy a suit of clothes for a half crown or enough meat to keep a family a week, for a sixpence.

Then there was a man selling ironstone dishes, which he threw up in the air and rattled around like an Indian juggler to show that they wouldn't break, and making a most terrific clatter. A man in a wagon was selling any quantity of old pictorial papers and magazines at half price, while a quartet of street musicians with blackened faces and grotesque costumes were making doleful and doubtful music near by.

There was also the man with the shell game, the card shark and a dice game much like roulette at which men, women and children were dropping their pennies by the handful. All were crying their wares and games in a loud voice, and the noise and confusion can better be imagined than described.

The buyers were no less interesting than the dealers and represented all degrees of poverty and misery. Ragged women with more ragged babies, making their purchases for the day, half clad children buying dirty candy with their "tha' pennies" and men buying anything and nothing, but principally filling up at the low groggeries.

A shilling made a big purchase and nothing was wrapped up. The aprons of the women seemed the common receptacle for everything, although some carried big baskets. One bare-footed and bare-headed woman who was followed by the Bee had a baby in her apron and then every article she bought went in on top. She first invested a "thripence" in a big soup bone, then came a pair of half worn out and dirty shoes, a small measure of potatoes, a cabbage, a string of sausage and a penny cake. The baby didn't seem to mind the mess and the woman went on her way loaded like a pack horse.

At noon the police swooped down on the place in a squad and ordered business stopped. The shop keepers put up their shutters, the hucksters and fakirs gathered up their unsold wares in baskets and hand carts and in 15 minutes the street was almost deserted, only the scraps and debris remaining scattered about to mark the spot where this animated scene had taken place and where fully a thousand of only such poor as London can produce had been attending "market." Later came the scavenger carts and the street was cleaned up.

BLAQUE WILSON.

OUR OHIO MOSQUITOES.

They Don't Bank Much On Size, but They Lay Over Their Jersey Cousin Every Time.

People have heard wonderful stories of the powers of the Jersey mosquito. They have marveled at tales of their size, tenacity of purpose and general formidableness, their unerring scent and the indefatigable manner in which they go about their business, still they know nothing of mosquitoes when the yarns have been spun. True, the Jersey mosquito is a well-developed animal and something of a hustler, but he can't hold a candle to his less pretentious brethren in the Buckeye state.

The Jersey mosquito is a giant in his way; he buzzes about, makes a great fuss, but then he is a gentleman, has regular office hours, and plys his trade during certain fixed seasons. The Ohio mosquito, however, knows no time or place, and respects no person. He is a little fellow, has a small tuft of hair on his topknot, and an appendage that looks for all the world like a chin whisker. His song is weak and plaintive, but it is heard from early spring until late in the fall. The Jersey mosquito goes off and dies when cold weather approaches, but his Ohio friend sips of the fountain of eternal youth and gets in some warm house where he roosts around with the bed bugs and fleas all winter. He sings his song until he is within three feet of you, then he shuts up, changes his course and makes a landing. You know nothing of his presence until he starts his boring apparatus. When you slap at him he just keeps still and seeks another location. The Jersey mosquito makes a big noise, sings all the time he is boring so that you know just where he is, and when you slap at him he says "Pink" and dies.

Our local masquitoes never die. If you happen to catch him he slips out of your fingers, because he is so small. He is a funny, quiet little fellow, but he has a way of getting there that is characteristic of the Buckeye state, and he is altogether a good deal more of a mosquito than his much-talked-about eastern cousin.

MISSIONARY MEETING.

Baptist Ladies of Northwestern Ohio Discuss Missions.

The quarterly meeting of the Baptist Missionary Union of the Toledo district was held in the Ashland Avenue Baptist church yesterday and was attended by over 100 ladies from different towns in northwestern Ohio.

Considerable routine business was transacted, and reports were read regarding the work in the different towns. These reports were very interesting, and showed good progress.

In the morning papers were read by Miss Stella Richardson, Mrs. W. H. Sloan and Mrs. Wilkin. A duett by Mrs. Judd Richardson and Mrs. Farrar and a solo by Mrs. Scammel were excellently rendered.

At noon dinner was served to the visitors by the ladies of the Ashland Avenue Baptist church, and in the afternoon a paper on the Chinese problem in America was read by Miss Clara Nelson and discussed at considerable length.

The event of the day was an address by Mrs. Rev. C. D. Morris, of Chicago, formerly of Toledo. Mrs. Morris is preceptress of the Chicago training school for missionaries, and she explained the workings and some of the results of this institution. She is a pleasant speaker, and her talk was very interesting. The Toledo union is furnishing a room in this school.

The afternoon program also included solos by Mrs. Richardson and Mrs. Brown, and a recitation by Miss Carrie Berry Phelps.

The day's meeting was most successful, and much good will come from the deliberations of the union.

THE POLICE BOARD

Hold Forth at the Regular Time.

Health and Police Reports for the Past Month—Policemen on the Rack—Last Night's Meeting.

All of the members of the police board were present at the regular meeting last night.

Before the regular business of the evening was taken up, an agent for the Pettibone Manufacturing company addressed the board in regard to the new overcoats.

Considerable time was taken up by the discussion of the subject, and it was finally determined that the board adopt the frock coat style, and later in the evening the entire matter was left to the committee on discipline, who have full power to act.

Health Officer Fisher made his report for the month of September. The total number of deaths for the month was 103, divided into classes as follows: Zymotic, 31; constitutional, 11; local, 47; development, 10; violence, 4.

Nativity as follows: Toledo, 41; Ohio, 7; United States, 25; Germany, 20; Ireland, 6; Canada, 1; Poland, 1; Denmark, 1; Switzerland, 1.

The city physicians made 192 visits and had 127 office calls.

The increase of diphtheria over last month was 11, and decrease of scarlet fever 5.

Dr. Fisher also presented an invitation from the B. P. H. A. of Kansas City, to the board asking them to attend the meeting to be held there October 20-23. He also read a lengthy and interesting paper on hygiene and the effects of impure air and water on the human system, closing his remarks with an urgent appeal to the board, that they take some action in establishing a city hospital to provide for the cure of contagious diseases. Eight hundred dollars has already been placed at the disposal of the board, by the council, and a resolution was passed asking the council to provide a place for the erection of a building to be used for that purpose.

The finance committee submitted its report, as follows: Police pay roll, $5,954 84; health office pay roll, $1,881 64; schedule of bills, $4938 13; police court department, $684.14. The bills were referred to the auditor for payment.

The report of the chief of police was submitted and approved.

William Boyd filed a complaint against Patrolman Geo. Van Buskirk for alleged drinking and the using of profane language before ladies on or about September 22. The complaint was allowed to take the regular course.

The board then proceeded to the trial of Patrolman Andrew Langenderfer on a charge of having arrested Lawrence Lawler without cause. A lengthy and heated consideration of both sides resulted in the board deciding that a great mistake had been made all around, making it unpleasant for all parties concerned, and on a full vote it was decided that there was no cause for complaint against Mr. Langenderfer.

Patrolman John Seigel's case was continued until the next meeting.

Chief O'Dwyer complained of the bad condition of the telephone in his office, and he was directed to see that it was put into good condition by the company.

Dr. Fisher stated that he had received many complaints for the board in their action in providing for the taking care of rubbish and refuse matter from the merchants on the principal streets.

Mr. Potter stated that a great many complaints had been made to him by citizens about the Italian fruit stands being open on Sunday, and the blockading of the sidewalks. The police were instructed to see that they kept their fruit off of the sidewalks.

AT THE THEATERS.

The Gormans Last Night—Rose Coghlan to Impersonate a Man—City Directory.

It was not a large audience that greeted Gorman's minstrels at Wheeler's last evening, but those who did attend enjoyed a good show. There were no specially strong acts, but everything was new and the performance was kept going with a bang. The marching and drilling done by the company dressed as Scotch soldiers was wonderful, and was the best thing in the show. Billy Van, a clever comedian of the Wilson, Slavin, Rankin order, made the hit of the evening. The audience went wild over his specialties, and called him out again and again. The Gormans, who are hard workers, are almost constantly on the stage. They are all good comedians and have had the reputation of putting on the best minstrel afterpieces of any writers doing that kind of work. Their afterpieces did a great deal toward making the old Haverly show the success it was. This being the case, the audience was disappointed with the very weak finale presented last evening. The Gormans can get up something much better, as their former work testifies.

Rose Coghlan as a Man.

Miss Coghlan's new play, Dorothy's Dilemma, in which she will appear at the Wheeler's next Monday night, is said to resemble in style the modern comedies produced by Augustin Daly. Miss Coghlan appears in the disguise of a British officer and rides a horse like a cavalryman. With such well-known people as John T. Sullivan, William Redmund, Thomas Whiffen, Edward Peiper, John S. Marble, Helen Russell Beatrice Moreland and Adele Palma in her company, she certainly has a support that is strong, and they are people who have all distinguished themselves by good work. Sale of seats opens to-morrow at Holmes'.

The City Directory.

Next Tuesday evening at the Wheeler opera house will be seen in this city for the first time, the famous comedy organization known as Russell's Comedians in the presentation of what is universally conceded to be one of the most successful and humorous modern farce comedies, City Directory.

This production has been the reigning rage of laughter for the past three years in all the principal cities of America, having a record of 250 nights at the Bijou theater, New York, 100 nights at Chicago, 100 in Boston, 100 in Philadelphia. It is safe to say that the presentation here will constitute one of the brightest comedy events of the year.

IRVING B. HIETT & CO.

WE ARE ON THE MOVE,

So Far as Real Estate is Concerned.

The Big Hiett Sale a Success—Some People's Hobby—The Transfers for the Past Week.

Real estate is booming, that is booming in a quiet, orderly way. To be sure, there is no Oklahoma rush, although the Hiett special sale this week was not far from it. Property is moving at a lively rate, and bringing good prices and profitable returns. Quite recently several new additions have been placed on the market, and are attracting considerable attention. Building is booming, and contractors have all the work they can possibly attend to. Everything is lovely, and real estate dealers are happy.

The So-Called Unlucky Friday.

It is surprising the superstitious fears prevailing among people of to-day, the age of school houses and enlightenment. It is not confined to or common with the ignorant class, but it is participated in by intelligent, refined people. It seems that Friday is looked upon as a sort of a holiday for evil spirits, hallowed with all kinds of bad omens, and misfortune and is generally looked upon with perfect horror by people who believe in omens and signs. You talk with a superstitious person and ten chances to one if the subject is broached, they will laugh in abject scorn at the bare possibility of their belief in such things, yet when it comes to a test, they are worse than children, with their bugaboo nursery tales.

Said a prominent real estate dealer to a Bee the other day: "You have no idea how superstitious people are. We have plenty of opportunities of testing them in this business, and people that you would least expect are the biggest cowards. If we make a sale and the day to close it up happens to be on Friday, and the purchaser is one of these superstitious people, invariably the deal goes over until the next day, often the next week, and not infrequently the sale is not made at all. I have had several good sales, as good as made, knocked in the head on account of the superstition. The same thing often occurs in renting a house. Believers in bad omens would rather sleep in a powder mill by the side of a burning candle, than do move on Friday, and it will be so until the end of the world."

The Arlington Sale.

The event of the week is Irving B. Hiett & Co.'s special sale of lots in Arlington addition. The property is owned by this firm, and was platted especially for this sale. It consists of 208 lots, ranging in size from 25 feet by 120 feet and 34 feet by 120 feet, and lies between Robison avenue and Swan creek, and is intersected by National avenue, Atlantic avenue, Wright avenue and Woodsdale avenue.

The plan of conducting this sale is a new one, and has created intense interest as well as illustrating the enterprise of this firm. On Monday, the first day of the sale, the street car line was unable to accommodate the immense crowds, anxious to attend the sale. The free lots were disposed of just as announced they would be, to the entire satisfaction of all concerned.

The lots met with ready sale, and over seventy-five were disposed of the first day. Inclement weather on Wednesday prevented the usual attendance, but regardless of this a number of lots were sold and the advertised lot given away just the same. The sale continues the remainder of the week, and if the weather is favorable undoubtedly every lot will be sold before the week's end.

Toledo Right In It.

Scarcely a day passes but wat strangers call at our office to make inquiries concerning Toledo and its prospects," remarked A. K. Detwiler. "We always show them around and they invariably announce themselves as being highly pleased with the city, and are unstinted in their praise of the business enterprise and hustle of its citizens.

"It is the same when you travel away from the city. Wherever you go, people have a kind word for Toledo. Its reputation as a live, wide-awake city is renowned, far and near, which is going to result in substantial returns, in time; that is certain."

THE OCTOBER MEETING

Of the Toledo Woman Suffrage Association.

Promptly at 3 p. m. yesterday afternoon President Rosa L. Segur called the Toledo Suffrage society to order for its first meeting since the summer vacation, and a large amount of business was transacted before the adjournment at 5 p. m., the regular hour for closing the meeting.

Mrs. M. J. Barker, recording secretary, read the minutes of the last meeting before the vacation, and the large amount of correspondence that had been received during that time, and business that had been transacted, was rapidly gone over.

Mrs. Segur, member for Toledo of the state executive committee of the Ohio association, reported that she had been unable to attend the meeting held at the Weddell house, Cleveland, but has received a report that the executive committee, after discussing legislative work for 1891-2, had adjourned to meet again after the November elections. An invitation has been extended the committee to hold the November meeting in this city at Mrs. Segur's. One demand made by Ohio suffragists upon the legislature this winter will be the extension of school suffrage to women. This right of franchise is granted women in 32 states, which leaves Ohio in the rear of the procession.

A request was read for assistance in paying the expenses of the headquarters' room at Washington of the National Suffrage association, and on motion the corresponding secretary, Mrs. Sarah E. Bissell, was instructed to write that the Toledo association would pay $6 per year toward these expenses.

Copies of the constitution of the Ohio State association and other suffra ge literature were offered the members, and the announcement was made that the Ohio suffragists had now an organ, "The True Republic."

Mrs. Edwards, of the committee on police matron, reported that everything was working satisfactorily. Matron Coates was very busy, but was well satisfied to do her work, which was now all turned over to her in systematic manner.

The study of the constitution of the United States was then taken up, the reading being the constitutional enactment on "coinage, weight and measures," and an interesting discussion followed, in which the fallacies of the mutual banking scheme were commented upon.

Mrs. Sarah L. Williams read the report on the advance of women's cause in the United States. Among the important things reported was the appeal made through Lucy Stone to the world's fair directors that the Columbian exposition should be opened and conducted without any military display; the appointment of the 12 police matrons in New York city; the request of Illinois women's organizations that in the city of Chicago there shall be one central police station for women only, and to which no men shall be admitted; various suffrage associations established through the country; the increased vote in the Methodist conference for the admission of women as delegates; the voting of women in some towns of Tennessee under an old law requiring only a property qualification from voters.

Mr. E. S. Gray read the foreign review, which also covered the advance of women in all lines and in all foreign countries, from England to India, from New Zealand to Canada.

Mrs. Sarah E. Williams, Mrs. Segur and others, paid a tribute of respect to the memory of Mrs. Julia Harris, who died in San Francisco this summer, and who was a member of the Toledo Suffrage society, 22 years ago, at its organization, and lately president. Mrs. Harris was a sister of President Fillmore, and was the last survivor of her immediate family.

Committees were appointed: Mesdames Frey, Murphy and Lang, and Miss McCullough to wait upon the visitors to the W. C. T. U. convention next week, to consult with delegates from towns in this congressional district relative to organizing suffrage club in these towns. Mrs. A. P. Secor was appointed committee on police matron for October.

Adjourned to first Wednesday in November.

DUEL WITH BULL WHIPS.

Novel and Terrific Battle Between Rival Missouri "Cow Punchers."

A teamster for a saw mill company, which operates in the bottoms near Chillicothe, brings a report of a queer duel that was fought last Sunday, says the St. Joseph News.

For some time there has been bad blood between James Stevens and Wm. Graham. The trouble originally arose over the relative merits of the two men as oxen drivers, or "bull punchers," each claiming to be the best in the section. The matter was kept within the bounds of a wordy war until last Sunday, when it was decided to settle the matter by a fight with bull whips.

These are dangerous weapons in the hands of an expert. They have a total length of about 15 feet, and, when well handled, the wielder can take a strip of hide from the flank of a bullock at every lick.

The preliminaries were all arranged and the men were given plenty of room in which to circulate. There were no seconds, and the understanding was that the men should fight until one cried "enough." The employes of the mill ranged themselves in a circle about 100 feet in diameter, and the men were told to go in and fight.

They approached within 15 feet of each other and halted. Then both began circling their long whips over their heads, waiting for an opportunity to give a cut. Graham was the first to try, but his blow was dodged by Stevens, who also sent his lash wide of its mark. This was repeated several times, when Stevens sent his lash directly at the handle of Graham's whip, and by a quick twist tore it from his grasp.

Graham quickly recovered his weapon, but not before Stevens gave him two fearful lashes, one drawing blood from his back and the other tearing a strip out of his trousers' leg. The pain so enraged Graham that he made a savage onslaught on Stevens, cutting him twice, once across the face.

Stevens kept his temper and again caught Graham's whip, but before the latter could recover it he was whipped about the head and face until he was completely blind and at the mercy of his antagonist, who lashed him into insensibility before he cried for mercy.

UNITED OVER HIS GRAVE.

The Tears of Old Ireland's Whole People

Will Wash Away the Only Stain on Parnell's Life.

Sad, But True, It Seems That He Was "Fated by the Irony of Destiny" to Fall During the Hour of His Eclipse.

New York, Oct. 8.—The morning papers of this city all comment at length on the sudden death of Charles Stewart Parnell and its probable effect upon the Irish party and home rule.

The World says:

"The death of Mr. Parnell, in the gloom of defeat and in comparative obscurity, is a doleful ending to a career that made him actually one of the most conspicuous figures of the time. His death clears the political atmosphere in England and Ireland, and brings harmony where there was discord."

The Recorder says:

"In the morning of his days, after a career of world-dazzling splendor, the 'uncrowned king of Ireland' passes away. No death in this generation is so momentous, for no parliamentary leader in our times has wielded greater authority. Parnell struck the heart of Ireland.

"He appealed to Irish self-denial, patriotism and courage. Freedom would only come with self-abnegation and united action.

"He found the Irish contingent in parliament a mob. He left it a party. By the forms of parliamentary government England had for centuries oppressed Ireland; by the forms of parliamentary government Parnell would open the way to Irish freedom.

"This is the achievement of Parnell. No folly can overturn it. No calumny can deny to him the honor. It will give him a first place among statesmen of the age."

The Advertiser says:

"It would have been far better for the fame of Parnell had he passed forever from the face of the earth a year or two ago. His moral suicide was the more conspicuous because he not only sacrificed his position as a prominent political leader, but lost, forever, the regard and respect of many honorable men.

"He gained his world-wide reputation as the actual creator and builder up of the modern Irish party. From him it had its being and to him it owed its vigor."

The Press says:

"A year ago Parnell would have gone to the tomb without even a stain upon a name and a fame that shone with luster, undimmed and unsurpassed in the history of his age and generation. As it is, the stain that has been will be blotted out by the tears of an Ireland, united over his grave."

The Tribune says:

"The death of Parnell would have been little less than a catastrophe a year ago. From his entrance upon public life to his downfall in the divorce court he was more than the stronghold and defense of home rule. He was the dayspring of a new era of political generation for Ireland.

"The clangor of controversy which has filled the last year of Mr. Parnell's life will be hushed before his grave. If his race has had something, perhaps much, to forgive in his conduct during the closing scenes of his career, it has infinitely more to be grateful for in his services to its cause and to the inspiration of his patriotism.

"If his death be not a catastrophe now, as it would have been not long ago, it is because his success had been overmastering, and his triumph so glorious, that he could not himself, with all his resources of genius, influence and inflexible will, undo his own work.

"A Parnell was needed, not only to revive and unite Ireland, but also to convert a Gladstone and English liberalism to home rule. His work is done; another year will witness its fruition."

The Herald says:

"Mr. Parnell must be counted among the remarkable men of the age. He made both friends and enemies by the policies he pursued and by the tactics he adopted. If his friends admired him for his pluck his enemies feared him for the same reason. He may be called great in all respects but one—he could fall to the rear when his party chose another leader. He was persistent at the expense of the cause he represented and lost much by trying to keep all."

The Sun:

"It seems indeed deplorable that, if Mr. Parnell were to die is the very prime of manhood, he might not have perished earlier, while he still stood before the eyes of men the uncrowned king of Ireland.

"As it is, he has fallen in the hour of his eclipse, when the sceptre had departed from him, and when his personal ambition seemed irrevocably divorced from his country's course.

"He was fated by the irony of destiny to die at a conjuncture when a single error and his desperate, ill-timed struggle to retrieve it, had in the minds of most of his compatriots outweighed all his indubitable services.

"Charles Stewart Parnell has passed beyond the sphere of earthly aspiration and endeavor at the moment when the Irish nationalist party, into which he breathed the breath of life, is at last in full view of the promised land."

The Times says:

"Mr. Parnell's greatest achievement was the building up of an organization which made Irish opposition to British rule in Ireland far more effective than it had ever been before.

"The criticism that is to be made upon his use of the leadership is, in effect, that he made no use of it. For many sessions he led the Irish members in obstruction and resistance to British projects of law, but there is scarcely an instance of his rallying them to the support of a project of his own.

"If he had been as capable of using power as he was of gaining it, Parnell would years ago have framed a positive program for the settlement of the Irish question by making upon England such demands as England could be reasonably expected to grant.

"He left it to an Englishman to frame the permanent plan of settlement and pacification which should have proceeded from the Irish themselves.

"When such a plan was submitted, in Mr. Gladstone's home rule bill, the Irish leader merely acquiesced in it. Thus he failed to rise to his great opportunity.

"Whether this shortcoming was due to incapacity or to the fact that the Irish leader found agitation more profitable than settlement, it is equally true that his leadership produced nothing for Ireland but a continuance of agitation.

"This fact makes it doubtful whether the regrets that were expressed at the time of his expulsion from the leadership were well founded. At all events his conduct at that time and ever since has contradicted every impression that had been made by his previous career, and showed that his loss of all influence in Irish affairs was the best thing that could happen for Ireland.

Instead of a strong and self-contained man he acted like a hysterical and spiteful woman and threw away every pretense of public spirit, or of attachment to the cause of which he had so long been considered the leader.

"Ever since the defiance with which he met Mr. Gladstone's refusal longer to co-operate with him as the leader of the Irish party, his political course has been a slow suicide, and though the man survived his loss of power so short a time, he yet survived by many months the Irish leader."

Lived Beyond His Time.

Cincinnati, Oct. 8.—Mr. J. P. Carberry, a prominent Irishman of this city, upon being told of Mr. Parnell's death, said: "Although a lamentable thing—the death of so young a man—yet it is providential, so far as the affairs of Ireland are concerned.

"New parties will be solidified, and there will be no more dissensions. There was a strong personal attachment to Mr. Parnell, which caused division even up to date.

"The same remark may be applied with even greater force to England, for the Irish parliamentary party will be united under the leadership of Dillon or Justin McCarthy, who will heartily co-operate with Mr. Gladstone in carrying out his program. There will be a cordial reunion now of the Irish contingent in parliament and the English liberals under practically one leadership."

Was Dead When He Died.

Father Mackey said the death of Parnell would unite the factions in Irleand for home rule, and that it would strengthen the hands of Gladstone and the liberal party. Parnell certainly rendered important services to Ireland by the discipline of organization which he introduced. He thought if it had not been for the O'Shea matter Parnell would have been as great a man in the eyes of the Irish as Charles O'Connor.

Parnell lived just one year too long for historical glory. Gladstone, a greater man, will still fight for the cause."

Parnell's Mother.

Bordentown, N. J., Oct. 8.—When Mrs. Delia S. Parnell was informed of the death of her son Charles Stewart Parnell, she fell from her chair to the floor, shrieking and groaning: "Oh, my son, my Charles, they have killed you."

She became hysterical, and it was some time before she was sufficiently composed to receive the particulars of her son's death.

She is 76 years old, and quite feeble. She declared that Charles had offered to aid her, but she had assured him she was comfortable. She spoke bitterly of her half brother, Edward Stewart, who, she said, had tried to deprive her of her home and had kept her away from her son.

She also declared that her son had been killed by the persecution of Davitt, the Irish World, and the politicians. She moaned because these "vipers" had prevented her from being with her son in his last years.

The New Leader.

New York, Oct. 8.—Michael Davitt thinks that Sexton or Dillon will be chosen leader of the Irish movement. Sexton would probably be the man. But no leader will ever be given the power that Parnell had. The real leadership will be through the executive council, of the federation and of the Irish parliamentary party. Mr. Davitt had only kind words for Mr. Parnell, and he and others interviewed hoped that the Irish factions would now be reunited.

FEEDING FLOOR FOR HOGS.

Our exchanges are discussing the value of feeding floors, but so far no one tells how to build one. We built one 20 years ago thus: We laid down on a piece of level ground 16 pieces of 2x4 scantling, edge up; nailed best quality matched flooring on them; nailed a piece of six-inch fencing up on edge all around the floor, which formed a rim to the floor one inch high. Then we banked up earth to the top of the rim, making a slope to reach the floor. We fed ear corn, husks on; and in wet or dry weather that floor was in first-rate condition for use. It costs but a trifle, and one of that size will feed 30 hogs comfortably. Once in a few days rake off the cobs and rubbish. Merely throwing the corn on the floor was as good as a silver-toned dinner-bell.—Germantown Telegraph.

THE SOUTHERN EXPOSITION.

What It Shows of the New South—The Negro not Terrorized.

The Southern Exposition, which will be formally opened in Raleigh, N. C, to-morrow, is a notable event in the history of that section, and is an natural general attention as much for the moral and political lessons that it teaches as for the industrial progress that it illustrates. Some thirty years ago the ten southern states which are now represented in exhibiting the victories of peace at Raleigh, were united in the effort to vindicate by arms their title to political independence. They had at that time, or supposed they had, but one important commercial resource. Cotton was believed to be king, and it was confidently hoped that it would prove a potent factor in securing a speedy and satisfactory termination of hostilities. This hope was not realized, and in view of the varied and wonderful resources that have since been brought to light and developed by the conditions that followed the war, what seemed at the time to its people the calamity of defeat must be regarded as the crowning blessing of its history.

To appreciate properly the difference between the south of that period and the south of the present, it is only necessary to contrast the showing it would have made thirty years ago, had it cared to make an exhibition of its products, with that which it is making today. Cotton, tobacco and the stock would then have constituted its chief exhibits, and had not the travail of a great revolution come upon it, would have still continued to represent its highest commercial and industrial capacity. Now it can make a display that not only interests, but instructs and amazes the sections which were once thought to have the monopoly of the elements that are the basis of business wealth and prosperity. The one talent still remains, but the score of other talents, long hid in a napkin, to apply a Scriptural parable, have been discovered and pressed into active service.

The boom and the boomer, with their exaggerated promises and overdrawn pictures, have of late hindered progress to some extent in certain of the southern states, but they have not been able to do it permanent harm or to lessen the greatness and certainty of the wonderful reality. The truth is that, remarkable as southern development has been in the last few years, the south is as yet simply on the threshold of its career. Striking as is the contrast between what it is now industrially and what it was before the war, it is as nothing to that which will be revealed by the future. Its possibilities, indeed seem limitless, its promise beyond the power of exaggeration.

With a vast domain that embraces every variety of soil and climate, and which is capable of producing nearly every plant and fruit known either to temperate or tropical latitudes; with splendid natural waterways in interior sections, and seaports that compare favorably with any in the country, and with immense forests of timber of every kind, it has in addition a dowry of mineral wealth that in variety, quality and quantity is probably unequaled, and is certainly unsurpassed, anywhere in the civilized world. In fact, the south of to-day seems to present the realized El Dorado of romantic fiction, and if it is permitted to work out its own destiny without interference, the star of industrial empire must be forcibly change its course to southern skies. Competing interests in other sections already perceive this, and with singular blindness and folly have sought by political devices to retard results which they ought to see will ultimately redound to their advantage and to that of the whole country, not less than the prosperity of the south.

Happily those efforts have so far been foiled by the manliness and good sense of the American people, and the south is now able in the exposition at Raleigh to show how well it has merited the confidence of other sections, and to make an unanswerable reply to the schemers who have been seeking to arrest her progress by appeals to political prejudice and by such agencies as the force bill. The logic of the argument that she makes at Raleigh is irrefutable. To words she opposes achievements, to charges and idle assertions, absolute and splendid results. Is she benighted or behind the age? The product of her mills and factories, of her mines and furnaces are a sufficient reply, a reply that makes the manufacturer and the monopolist of other sections feel to say the least, exceedingly uncomfortable.

Is the colored race oppressed and terrorized? The colored race answers for itself in the exhibits which it makes at this southern exposition and in the prosperity and wealth which it is accumulating in all parts of the south. Tyrants and oppressors should be made of sterner stuff than the men who are thus helping the freedmen up to a higher level and teaching them how to reach the full stature of manhood. There is not much solace or encouragement in the Raleigh exposition for disturbers of the national tranquility.

The evidence that it furnishes strikes a death-blow to their malice. It proves that the heart and soul of the south are wholly enlisted in the pursuits of peace, and that her population, white and black, are working shoulder to shoulder for the general advancement. All they ask is to be permitted to carry out their own fortunes in peace.—Baltimore Sun.

AN UNPLEASANT EPISODE.

Uncle Jerry's Reasons for Declining a Tempting Invitation.

I was sitting on the veranda of a South Carolina hotel with Col. Golden, when an old colored man came limping up the street, and the colonel called to him to come up where we were. When he arrived the colonel said:

"Uncle Jerry, I don't see you very often of late."

"No, sah. I'z dun gittin' slightly feebleous 'bout movin' around."

"I've got about twenty of the nicest little pigs you ever saw in a pen."

"Has yo'?"

"And a new lot of chickens."

"H'm."

"Lots of sweet potatoes around now, Uncle Jerry."

"Yes, sah."

"And the boys just got the smoke-house filled up the other day."

"Dey did, eh?"

"You are a widower yet, aren't you, Uncle?"

"Yes, sah; oh, yes."

"Well, I've got a mighty fine looking colored cook now and you must come down and see her. Just drop in on us any evening."

"Kurnel," said the old man, as he vigorously scratched his head, "I would dun like to obleege you all, but I reckon I won't come."

"You won't! Why, what's the matter?"

"I was down dar one night las' spring to ax yo'r man Bill to lend me two bits. I stepped right into a hog b'ar trap, an' it hung to me till I had to holler. Den yo' come out wid a lantern and a hoss-whip, and de way yo' did tuck it on to me beat all, honey. I believe sunthin' was said 'bout a piece of meat lyin' dar, an' 'bout two chickens in a bag, an' if I dun 'member right I didn't get outer my cabin fur 'bout fo' weeks arter dat episeedious. No, Kurnel, I reckon I won't come down dar. I'ze mighty fond of yo', an' I can jest taste dem roast pigs an' sweet 'taters, but de nigger who puts his foot into a b'ar trap twice in one y'ar orter be dun clubbed to death for a fule."—M. Quad.

A NORWEGIAN DINNER.

They Know How to Live in the Land of the Norsemen.

A neat maid, with a beautiful complexion, announced dinner, and Professor Heiberg offered me his seat at table, said, "Velkommen till bordet," welcome to the board, a pretty way of expressing hospitality.

The table was charmingly arranged with quaint old Norwegian silver and beautifully fine embroidered linen. The silver drinking cups, of various shapes, had usually little round, tinkling things hanging from them as an ornamentation; these dangles gave a light and pretty effect, and are quite old Norwegian style. Some of the spoons, with their quaintly twisted handles, were also very pretty.

The menu was excellent, and in our honor had been composed of purely representative foods.

First of all we had a delicious white soup made from cod, in which floated small balls of fish, along with French beans that had previously been prepared be being soaked in vinegar and sugar. This soup sounds a curious melange, but it was really excellent. Next came a prepared fish served in a souffle dish, something like Kedgee only without any rice. A white sauce was handed with this, and the caners served separately. Wonderful to relate, we had fish knives, still a great luxury abroad.

Cold ham, tongue and peas, prettily arranged together on one side dish, were next handed round and then came hot ptarmigan, which in its native land, well larded, and with a thick Norwegian sauce, is a most excellent dish. With this we had compote of raspberries, red currant jelly and preserved ginger.

Malter are delicious. They are yellow fruit about the size of mulberries. They grow on low bushes in the Norwegian mountains, the fruit and flowers bearing simultaneously. They are picked in October, and preserved, and served cold with cream. They have a slight flavor of pine trees, if such a thing is possible, but they are fascinating food.

Two or three kinds of bread were eaten; the white rolls, black bread, which closely resembles German "pumpernickel," and "flat brod," a bread or cake made from rye, and first cousin to Scotch oat cake.

Hock and claret were drunk during dinner, and sweet champagne served with the pudding and dessert.

After dinner we had cheese, and the meal ended.

"Skole" is really a Swedish word for drinking your health, and almost every time any one drank anything they smilingly skoled across the table to some one, who thereupon had to low, and drink, and bow again before putting down the glass. We, as guests, were skoled by every one in turn, until at last this health drinking became quite alarming, and we merely bowed in self-defence.

With many thanks from our host for kindly dining with him, and many invitations for the future in universally pretty form of politeness, our host offered me his arm, and we walked back to the drawing room. After a few minutes' conversation the gentlemen left us to smoke.

Excellent coffee, with scalded cream, was then handed, accompanied by Swedish punch, a delicious, although somewhat sweet liquor. Our hostess produced a large, handsome cut glass bottle of eau-de-cologne, to which her friends literally helped themselves. Every one was kindness itself, and every one wanted to know if there was service they could render us; if so, they were quiet at our disposal, etc.

ORIGIN OF THE WORD "COCK-TAIL."

The title of our most popular drink comes from Mexico. The Aztec word for pulque is pronounced much like cocktail, and General Scott's troops called the liquor cocktail and carried the word back to the United States. It is said that the liquor was discovered by a Toltec noble and that he sent it to the king by the hand of his daughter, Miss Cocktail (Xochitl). The king drank the liquor and then looked at the maiden. The first tickled his palate, the second enamored his heart. It was a case of love at first sight in both instances and he married the girl and started a pulque plantation. From that day to this the Mexicans have kept themselves saturated with pulque, and Miss Cocktail is one of the Venuses of Mexican tradition. Mexican brandies are very strong.

There is one called aguardiente, which is made from sugar cane, and which is as strong as it is cheap. I had a sore throat and was advised to bathe my neck in the brandy. I found that it made the skin smart, and concluded to see how much alcohol there was in it. I poured a wineglassful of it on my marble washstand and touched a match to it. It exploded like coal oil and blazed away for 10 minutes. Two million dollars' worth of this brandy is made in Mexico every year. Mexicans have some good wines, but they are very dear, and an ordinary claret costs a dollar a bottle.—From Carpenter's Special Letter to the World.

ARE RATTLESNAKES DANGEROUS?

"Railroad Building on the Texas Frontier" is the title of an exceedingly interesting paper by Mr. George W. Rafter, C. E., in the Engineering Magazine for October. A portion of his paper will be found especially interesting to readers of snake stories. Upon this subject he says:

Taylor county, Texas, is the natural home of the prairie dog, and her constant neighbor, of the rattlesnake, also. The rattlesnake and the ground owl are found wherever the prairie dog lives, and there is a legend to the effect that the three dwell peaceably together in the same hole. This I believe to be a myth so far as the rattlesnake is concerned. When he takes possession the others go out. If they can get out leaving his snakeship in undisputed possession. The owl and the prairie dog probably do occupy the same hole.

As cool weather came on in the fall, the number of rattlesnakes encountered by bicyclists where the industry of the prairie dog had furnished a home for them, was so great that I refrain from mentioning it for fear of being under the imputation of telling snake stories. I content myself with saying that it was a poor day for snakes when one did not see at least half a dozen in a day's journey.

But in spite of the large number of rattlesnakes I not only never saw a human being who had been bitten by one, but I cannot now remember ever meeting any person who, on close questioning, could truthfully say he had seen such a case. The habits of the snake of first trying to get away, and when he finds himself too closely pressed, of coiling and sounding the warning rattle, is probably the real reason why so few are bitten. Five feet in length is a large rattlesnake, one-half his length is the limit of striking.

I presume I have come upon rattlesnakes and either tantalized them with a flag-pole myself or witnessed it many times in my party's past, at least a hundred times, and with one exception the snake was willing enough to retreat if allowed to. The exception was a large rattler in the Sand Hills who as we came upon him was just preparing to make a dinner of a kangaroo rat. He not only defended his dinner but advanced toward the enemy, viciously coiling and striking. It seems to me that an angry rattler comes nearer typifying the incarnate spirit of viciousness than any other object in nature.

FASHION IN LITERATURE.

It is always a salutary and sobering practice to look back a little to take stock of literary fashions. A generation or two ago—thanks to several things, but thanks finally to Carlyle—German literature was the fashion. And while the fashion lasted, besides the excellent things in that literature, a considerable quality of second-rate and third-rate German stuff was thrust down John Bull's obedient throat, just as to-day, under the stress of newer fashions, he is being made to swallow a good deal of rubbish imported from France, America, Russia, Norway, Holland, and heaven knows where besides. If to-day amidst this Babel of foreign favorites, nobody finds a word to say for the Germans, a chief reason is that our fathers had their fill of them, and that children's teeth have been set on edge. In the heat of the German fashion some of our critics permitted themselves to say some rash things about the barrenness of the superb literature of France. De Quincey's case was a flagrant example; but it was not the only one nor the latest. It is worth while to recall those mistakes and to take warning by them now that we are under the dominion of other fashions.—St. James' Gazette.

DRESS ON OUR MEN-OF-WAR.

American naval officers are men of many clothes, and the official etiquet of dress aboard ship is appalling to a landsman. Every officer must have four or five styles of hats and caps, at least as many different kinds of coats, and even prescribed styles of neckties is considerable variety. The captain ordinarily prescribes the uniform of the day, but when a flagship is within signaling distance of another man-of-war the admiral is the authority on clothes as on other things. To appear on deck with the wrong necktie is to invite a reprimand. Substantially, who are a good deal given to grumbling, insist that most commanders prescribe the uniform of the day without considering the thermometer, with the result that everybody sweltters in thick blue broadcloth on hot days and shivers in white duck when the weather is cool.

"Rather lean on inward worth than outward show." If you trust to Pearline you can do both. It will show its worth in washing clothes and cleaning house, with half of the labor and none of the usual troubles. You will only be "tried" if you try to do without it. Nothing can suffer if you use it; everything will suffer if you don't.

Beware Peddlers and some unscrupulous grocers will tell you "this is as good as" or "the same as Pearline." IT'S FALSE—Pearline is never peddled, and if your grocer sends you something in place of Pearline, do the honest thing—send it back. 223 JAMES PYLE, N.Y.

Entirely harmless and easily applied. Consultation Free and Strictly Confidential. Correspondence promptly answered.

YOUNG MEN—Who have become victims of solitary vice, that dreadful and destructive habit, which annually sweeps to an untimely grave thousands of young men of exalted talent and brilliant intellect, may call with confidence.

DR. FRANCE AND OTTMAN, after years of experience, have discovered the greatest cure known for weakness in the back and limbs, involuntary discharges, impotency, general debility, nervousness, fear, confusion of ideas, palpitation of the heart, timidity, trembling, dimness of sight, or giddiness, diseases of the head, throat, nose, or skin, affections of the liver, lungs, stomach, or bowels—those terrible diseases arising from the solitary vice of youth—and secret practices, blighting their most radiant hopes or anticipations, rendering marriage impossible. Take one candid thought before it is too late. A word to you who have become beyond the reach of hope. Our method of treatment will speedily and permanently cure the most obstinate case, and absolutely restore perfect manhood.

TO MIDDLE-AGED MEN—There are many from the age of 30 to 60 who are troubled with frequent evacuations of the bladder, often accompanied by a slight burning or smarting sensation, weakening the system in a manner the patient cannot account for. On examination of the urinary deposits, a ropy sediment will be found, or the color will be a thin or milkish hue. There are many men who die of this difficulty, ignorant of the cause, which is a second stage of seminal weakness. We will guarantee a perfect cure in all such cases, and a healthy restoration of the genito-urinary organs.

DISEASES OF WOMEN.—We have a special department, thoroughly organized, and devoted exclusively to the treatment of diseases of women. Every case consulting our specialists, whether by letter or in person, is given the most careful and considerate attention. Important case, and we get few which have not baffled the skill of all the home physicians have the benefit of a full council of skilled specialists. In treatment of diseases peculiar to females, our success has been marked, over two-thirds of our patients being ladies, old, young, married, single, rich and poor. Our method is entirely free from the objectionable features of general practitioners, namely, "Local treatment." We seldom find it necessary. We prepare remedies, constitutional and local, as the case demands, and enable ladies home to treat themselves.

MARRIAGE.—Married persons, or young men contemplating marriage, aware of physical weakness, loss of procreative powers, impotency, or any other disqualification, speedily restored.

PRIVATE DISEASES.—Blood Poison, Venereal Taint, Gleet, Stricture, Seminal Emissions, Loss of Sexual Power, Weakness of Sexual Organs, Want of Desire in Male or Female, whether from imprudent habits of youth or sexual habits of mature years, or any cause that debilitates the sexual functions, speedily and permanently cured. Consultation free and strictly confidential. Absolute cures guaranteed. Medicines sent free from observation to all parts of the United States.

EPILEPSY OR FITS—Positively cured by a new and never-failing method. Testimonials furnished.

FREE EXAMINATION OF THE URINE.—Each person applying for medical treatment should send or bring from 2 to 4 ounces of urine (that passed first in the morning preferred), which will receive a careful chemical and microscopical examination, and if requested a written analysis will be given.

Persons ruined in health by unlearned pretenders, who keep trifling with them month after month, giving poisonous and injurious compounds, should apply immediately. Delays are dangerous.

WONDERFUL CURES Perfected in old cases which have been neglected or unskillfully treated by others. No experiments or failures. Parties treated by mail or express, but where possible, personal consultation is preferred. Curable cases guaranteed. No risks incurred.

Treatment sent C. O. D. to any part of U. S. Cases and correspondence confidential. List of 130 questions free. Address, with postage, DR. FRANCE, Nos. 36 and 40 W. Gay St., Columbus, O.
